170,000 auto workers walk off their jobs

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Company's 170,000 blue collar workers walked off the job Tuesday night in a nationwide strike that followed a collapse of contract negotiations.

The strike came at precisely 10:59 p.m. CDT despite contract proposals Ford said would be worth "well over $1 billion" to its employes over the next three years.

The United Auto Workers said reduced work time in the nation's auto plants was its key demand.

UAW Pres. Leonard Woodcock said that despite two months of negotiations, Ford ignored the union's demands until the last days of bargaining.

"On virtually all issues," he said, "Ford has been unresponsive and unwilling to engage in serious bargaining."

Ford labor Vice President Sidney McKenna said the No. 2 automakers had "attempted to take a constructive and reasonable approach." McKenna said Ford would be willing to bargain "reasonably and fairly" to keep the duration of the strike to a minimum.

McKenna listed 13 contract proposals, including a wage increase and a plan to give workers a "time bank" with up to 40 hours of extra time off a year, which would be worth well over $1 billion over the next three years.

Woodcock said Ford refused to respond to union demands in seven areas.

These included shorter work time, financial relief for retirees, improvement in the special layoff fund that provides money for idled workers and improvements in the workers' health insurance plans.

It was the second time in nine years that the powerful union has struck the No. 2 automaker.

No one was willing to predict how long the walkout would last. A lengthy strike could have dire ramifications for the nation's economy as it attempts to rebound from two years of recession.

The strike against Ford will not affect output at General Motors, Chrysler or American Motors whose 530,000 workers will continue to build cars until Ford and the UAW agree on a new contract. It will then be each company's turn to settle for the same basic terms.

The greatest effect of the walkout will be felt in the states of Michigan and Ohio where Ford facilities are concentrated. Ford has 85,000 UAW members in 38 Michigan plants and another 32,205 workers in 14 plants in Ohio. Altogether, there are UAW-represented workers in 91 plants in 22 states.

The effects of a strike on the national economy, just recovering from a deep two-year recession, are incalculable and would depend on the length of the walkout, industry analysts said. It has been estimated that the 67-day strike against General Motors in 1970 delayed the economy recovery from the 1969-70 recession by one full quarter.

President Ford Tuesday expressed concern the walkout "could have and would have some unfavorable aspects as far as our economy is concerned."

2 win contest to name links Arlington Lakes

Two Arlington Heights residents who submitted identical entries in a contest to name the proposed golf course were winners Tuesday night when park commissioners designated the area Arlington Lakes Golf Club.

Dave Rhyan, 1147 S. Ridge, and Joseph H. Arndt Jr., 1202 S. Patton, will each receive $100 and, if voters approved development of the site into a $1.5 million golf course Oct. 2, a year's free greens fees.

The winning entries were among 167 submitted in the contest, sponsored by the park district and Paddock Publications.

COMMISSONERS also passed a resolution calling for the special election that will determine whether the golf course will be built and whether $1.3 million in construction and remodeling at 22 parks will begin.

In other business, two Pioneer Park area residents, William Klingenmaier, 815 W. Fairview, and Anthony Gregorio, 809 W. Fairview, complained about vandalism in the park and around their homes and asked whether police have jurisdiction in the parks.

"We're talking about 50 to 100 kids between age 12 and 15 in the area by 10 p.m. every night," Klingenmaier said. "They use the property for urinals, have caused $367 worth of damage to my home and when I talk to police they say they don't have jurisdiction to go in the parks."

Park district Director Tom Thornton said, "There is no question that

Golf course getting closer every day

The final step to formally acquiring the Nike Base site for a golf course is under way for the Arlington Heights Park District.

An official speaking for U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, Tuesday said the General Services Administration has declared the 26-acre site requested by the park district as "surplus to all federal needs."

"The Arlington Heights Park District's applicaton for the land will now be considered," Maureen Reynolds, a Crane aide, said.

"We are assuming that no one else will apply for it. Things should happen very, very quickly now," Mrs. Reynolds said.

The action by the General Services Administration means no federal agencies have expressed a need for the Nike site, she said.

The delay in getting the deed for the 26-acre parcel is holding up the signing of contracts by the village and park district for flood control and preliminary grading work on the proposed 90-acre golf course site.

The park district holds title to the other 64 acres.

Derks seeks return to police basics

And you thought Washington, D.C., was "where the action is."

Not so — if you are Robert Derks and are interested in law enforcement.

"The action in law enforcement is at the local level, not at the federal level," says Derks, who Oct. 18 will take command of the Arlington Heights Police Dept.

"It's at the municipal level where the bread and butter issues are. If something is to be done about crime and vandalism it must be done there," Derks said in a phone interview.

DERKS, 40, WAS selected Friday to replace L. W. Calderwood, who retired in June after 18 years as police chief.

Robert Derks

Derks currently serves as acting assistant commissioner for the Office of Federal Protective Service Management, a division of the General Service Administration in Washington, D.C.

"I'm extremely proud and am looking forward to coming to Arlington Heights. It's a beautiful community and, in all sincerity, it seems to be the type of community where you can raise a family," Derks said.

Derks and his wife, Monica, have three children. They live in Reston, Va.

The challenge of running a municipal police department and the chance to return to the Midwest were primary reasons for accepting the Arlington Heights offer, Derks, a native of Kansas City, Mo., said.

DERKS ENTERED the law enforcement field in 1959 as a patrolman for the Kansas City Police Dept. He worked as a criminal investigator for Montgomery Ward and Co., was a special agent for the Office of Naval Intelligence, was a police consultant for the Institute of Community Studies in Kansas City and was a captain in the Jackson County, Mo., Sheriff's Dept.

In 1971 he joined the Federal Protective Service Division and climbed through the ranks to his current position in which he is responsible for directing law enforcement programs for more than 10,000 government buildings.

He still is on the job in Washington, but already has begun to compile a list of goals and objectives for his first year in Arlington Heights. At the top of the list is a new public safety building, which the administration has recommended and several village

Glueckerts retain the hope Barbara will be found

Whatever happened to Barbara Glueckert?

Three weeks and four days since the 14-year-old Mount Prospect girl vanished, nobody can unravel all the twisted events that led to Barbara's disappearance.

Few decent clues exist. A $5,000 reward offer has not produced significant information.

Time seems to work against Barbara, who would have begun her freshman year at Prospect High School this fall. Time has not made her easier to locate.

The fate of this pleasant and shy but naive girl is no Sherlock Holmes fairy tale. It is cruel fact, and a horrible mystery that shrouds many lives.

Today

Mike Klein's people

Many corners have been turned and many stones kicked up, but all to no avail. Little satisfaction exists today for Barbara's parents, Robert and Gail Glueckert.

DECENT CLUES ARE a shrinking commodity. The search for Thomas Urlacher, alias Tom Edwards, who might have been Barbara's abductor, has been fruitless.

Barbara's fate remains a mystery.

She might be running away from home, perhaps a well calculated and conceived decision, but quite unlikely, her parents insist.

She might be helpless somewhere, being held against her will.

Barbara might be in almost any condition today.

Nobody knows.

Police, however, keep trying. Leads develop and then fizzle. "Positive identifications" check out negative. Mysterious telephone calls add hope, but nothing more concrete.

The Glueckerts have not received one letter, postcard or ransom note in their mail that has provided a clue.

Clairvoyants aid police in search

by DANN GIRE

Det. Sgt. Patrick Hallihan never did believe in clairvoyancy — at least not until the infamous Flanagan murders of 1972.

The murders of 27-year-old Barbara Flanagan and her 18-month-old baby, whose nude bodies were dumped in a Mount Prospect church parking lot, are remembered well by local police.

But one fact not publicized then was that police solved the crime with the help of a clairvoyant.

"I'M LIKE MOST policemen, I suppose. We're ordinarily very cynical people," said Hallihan of the Mount Prospect Police Dept. "But the person I worked with in 1972 certainly changed my outlook on clairvoyants."

Hallihan, chief investigator in the recent disappearance of 14-year-old Barbara Glueckert, says now he's convinced that there are persons who possess certain insights ordinary persons don't.

The clairvoyant Hallihan worked with in 1972, whose identity is confidential, was "79 per cent right on all counts," Hallihan said. "She gave us information that the person we were looking for had been released from a mental institution only six months before. She told us the offender hates women, and that his mother had deserted him. She was right."

The Flanagan murders were closed four years ago, when the killer was caught and sentenced to another men-

House fire leaves youth badly burned

A 17-year-old Schaumburg youth was burned seriously Tuesday morning when fire swept through a wing of his family's home at 1932 W. Winston Ln., Schaumburg. Tom Staley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Staley, suffered first-and second-degree burns over about 40 per cent of his body. He was listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village. Staley was pulled from his burning bedroom by Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen and next door neighbor Rogers Eiermann. Abrahamsen said the fire was started by "an electrical failure" and did about $15,000 damage.

Columbo lawyer used trickery?

William A. Swano, an assistant public defender assigned to defend Patricia Columbo against charges she murdered her parents and her younger brother, was accused Tuesday of calling prosecution withnesses and identifying himself as a representative of the Cook County state's attorney's office. Ewano denied the allegation. Assistant State's Atty. Patricia C. Bobb charged Swano phoned a scuba diver who searched a pond behind Miss Columbo's apartment in Lombard for evidence after her arrest and identified himself as an official of the state's attorney's office. Miss Columbo, 20, is charged with murdering her father, Frank, 41, her mother, Mary, 40, and her brother, Michael, 13. Their bodies were discovered in their Elk Grove Village home May 7. Meanwhile, an Illinois Appellate Court Judge has rejected a request by Miss Columbo for a reduction in her $250,000 bail. Defense attorneys plan to appeal the ruling to the Illinois Supreme Court.

GEC business license revoked

The business license of GEC Industries, a firm owned by a key figure in the bribery and misconduct trial of Gilbert J. Monoson, former village trustee, has been revoked by Wheeling officials. The village board voted to revoke the license after Village Mgr. Terry L. Zerkle said the company owned by George Carpin had failed to bring its building at 422 Mercantile Ct., into compliance with village building codes. Carpin in June asked the village board to grant a zoning variation so he would not have to install sprinklers or a fire wall in an addition to his building. The board denied the request 6 to 0 and told Carpin it would revoke his business license by September if the addition was not in compliance then.

Dave Rhyan, 1147 S. Ridge Ave. and Joseph H. Arndt Jr., 1202 S. Patton Ave., will each receive $100 and a year's free greens fees to the nine-acre site at Central and Wilke roads. Police seek armed robber

Police are seeking a 6-foot-2 man with sideburns and mustache in connection with the armed robbery Tuesday night of the Clark Gas Station at Ill. Rte. 53 and Algonquin Road, Schaumburg. The man reportedly displayed a handgun to the station attendant who handed over an undisclosed amount of money at 10:35 p.m. Police reported the man may have been driving a green Plymouth Barracuda with a female accomplice heading east on Algonquin Road. Police said the couple may be the same persons who robbed a Clark Station in Lake Zurich earlier Tuesday evening. No other details were available at 11 p.m.

Each accuse the other

Carey, Egan argue who holds patronage position

by WANDALYN RICE

The two candidates for Cook County State's Attorney Tuesday night accused each other of being products of political patronage.

Appearing before the Chicago Forum Club in their second campaign debate, Republican State's Atty. Bernard Carey said his opponent, Democrat Edward Egan, "has never had a job where he didn't need political sponsorship."

Egan served as an assistant state's attorney during the late 1950s and early 1960s.

EGAN, WHO resigned from the Illinois Appellate Court to accept his party's nominaton for state's attorney, in turn accused Carey of claiming to end patronage during his four year tenure while employing eight Republican committeemen in his office.

"When he has eight Republican committeemen on his staff, I ask him please don't say political appointments don't mean anything," Egan said.

Egan also said he originally joined the state's attorney's office in 1955 without sponsorship from a Democratic committeeman.

"I was the personal appointee of (then State's Atty.) John Boyle whose secretary knew my mother," Egan said. Boyle, a close political ssociate of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, is now chief judge of the Cook County Circuit Court.

Also during the one and one-half hour debate, Carey and Egan engaged in often heated exchanges about conflicting statistics on the record of the state's attorney's office in fighting crime.

Egan said Carey is "the champion plea bargainer" and obtained a high convicton rate "as the result of deals." He charged the fact that 93 per cent of Carey's prosecutions end with guilty pleas indicates the charges against defendants are being reduced in large numbers.

CAREY DEFENDED his record saying successful prosecution of felonies is one reason Chicago's crime rate decreased last year.

"We had a drop in the violent crime rate and we don't get credit for that from the police departments. But we deserve part of the credit," Carey said.

Carey also said Egan's resignation from his judgeship to run for state's attorney indicates he was ordered to do so by Daley.

Carey printed to a newspaper photo of a sign carried by Egan campaign workers in last week's Democratic parade for presidential candidate Jimmy Carter as an indication of Egan's loyalty to Daley.

"I DON'T KNOW whether my opponent genuflects before the great one," Carey said, "but this sign says 'Ed Egan salutes Mayor Daley and President Carter' and Daley is first . . . because Daley is always first."

Egan said he was not ordered to give up his judgeship, which he could have held for nine years before seeking reelection.

"I'm not the smartest man in the world, but I'm no chump. I ask you, what could Mayor Daley have done to me if I said I wouldn't leave the court? Absolutely nothing," Egan said.

Egan said he decided to run for office because "I have a strong feeling for the office" and under Carey "I see an office that has become a publicity mill instead of a prosecutor's office."

Donors needed in blood shortage

The North Suburban Blood Center, Northbrook, Tuesday reported an acute shortage of blood available to North and Northwest suburban hospitals.

The average daily demand for blood among the 11 area hospitals served by the blood center is 2 to 2½ times the amount of blood being donated, a blood bank administrator said.

The current shortage was confirmed by the blood bank at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where technicians said blood types B and B negative were in especially short supply.

The North Suburban Blood Center said that all types of blood were needed.

The center currently is supplying 100 to 125 pints of blood a day to hospitals in the system, including all four Nrthwest suburban hospitals. But donations of blood have dwindled to an average of only 45 to 50 pints a day.

Persons interested and able to be a blood donor may call the North Suburban Blood Center at 498-9840 or the community hospital near their home for an appointment.

House fire leaves youth badly burned

A 17-year-old Schaumburg youth was burned seriously Tuesday morning when fire swept through a wing of his family's home at 1932 W. Winston Ln., Schaumburg. Tom Staley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Staley, suffered first-and second-degree burns over about 40 per cent of his body. He was listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village. Staley was pulled from his burning bedroom by Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen and next door neighbor Rogers Eiermann. Abrahamsen said the fire was started by "an electrical failure" and did about $15,000 damage.

Columbo lawyer used trickery?

William A. Swano, an assistant public defender assigned to defend Patricia Columbo against charges she murdered her parents and her younger brother, was accused Tuesday of calling prosecution withnesses and identifying himself as a representative of the Cook County state's attorney's office. Ewano denied the allegation. Assistant State's Atty. Patricia C. Bobb charged Swano phoned a scuba diver who searched a pond behind Miss Columbo's apartment in Lombard for evidence after her arrest and identified himself as an official of the state's attorney's office. Miss Columbo, 20, is charged with murdering her father, Frank, 41, her mother, Mary, 40, and her brother, Michael, 13. Their bodies were discovered in their Elk Grove Village home May 7. Meanwhile, an Illinois Appellate Court Judge has rejected a request by Miss Columbo for a reduction in her $250,000 bail. Defense attorneys plan to appeal the ruling to the Illinois Supreme Court.

GEC business license revoked

The business license of GEC Industries, a firm owned by a key figure in the bribery and misconduct trial of Gilbert J. Monoson, former village trustee, has been revoked by Wheeling officials. The village board voted to revoke the license after Village Mgr. Terry L. Zerkle said the company owned by George Carpin had failed to bring its building at 422 Mercantile Ct., into compliance with village building codes. Carpin in June asked the village board to grant a zoning variation so he would not have to install sprinklers or a fire wall in an addition to his building. The board denied the request 6 to 0 and told Carpin it would revoke his business license by September if the addition was not in compliance then.

2 winners in parks contest

Two Ariington Heights residents who submitted identical entries in a contest to name the proposed Arlington Heights Park District golf course became winners Tuesday night when park commissioners designated the area Arlington Lakes Golf Club. Dave Rhyan, 1147 S. Ridge Ave. and Joseph H. Arndt Jr., 1202 S. Patton Ave., will each receive $100 and a year's free greens fees to the nine-acre site at Central and Wilke roads. The winning entries were among 167 submitted in the contest, sponsored by the park district and Paddock Publications.

Police seek armed robber

Police are seeking a 6-foot-2 man with sideburns and mustache in connection with the armed robbery Tuesday night of the Clark Gas Station at Ill. Rte. 53 and Algonquin Road, Schaumburg. The man reportedly displayed a handgun to the station attendant who handed over an undisclosed amount of money at 10:35 p.m. Police reported the man may have been driving a green Plymouth Barracuda with a female accomplice heading east on Algonquin Road. Police said the couple may be the same persons who robbed a Clark Station in Lake Zurich earlier Tuesday evening. No other details were available at 11 p.m.

Each accuse the other

Carey, Egan argue who holds patronage position

by WANDALYN RICE

The two candidates for Cook County State's Attorney Tuesday night accused each other of being products of political patronage.

Appearing before the Chicago Forum Club in their second campaign debate, Republican State's Atty. Bernard Carey said his opponent, Democrat Edward Egan, "has never had a job where he didn't need political sponsorship."

Egan served as an assistant state's attorney during the late 1950s and early 1960s.

EGAN, WHO resigned from the Illinois Appellate Court to accept his party's nominaton for state's attorney, in turn accused Carey of claiming to end patronage during his four year tenure while employing eight Republican committeemen in his office.

"When he has eight Republican committeemen on his staff, I ask him please don't say political appointments don't mean anything," Egan said.

Egan also said he originally joined the state's attorney's office in 1955 without sponsorship from a Democratic committeeman.

"I was the personal appointee of (then State's Atty.) John Boyle whose secretary knew my mother," Egan said. Boyle, a close political ssociate of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, is now chief judge of the Cook County Circuit Court.

Also during the one and one-half hour debate, Carey and Egan engaged in often heated exchanges about conflicting statistics on the record of the state's attorney's office in fighting crime.

Egan said Carey is "the champion plea bargainer" and obtained a high convicton rate "as the result of deals." He charged the fact that 93 per cent of Carey's prosecutions end with guilty pleas indicates the charges against defendants are being reduced in large numbers.

CAREY DEFENDED his record saying successful prosecution of felonies is one reason Chicago's crime rate decreased last year.

"We had a drop in the violent crime rate and we don't get credit for that from the police departments. But we deserve part of the credit," Carey said.

Carey also said Egan's resignation from his judgeship to run for state's attorney indicates he was ordered to do so by Daley.

Carey printed to a newspaper photo of a sign carried by Egan campaign workers in last week's Democratic parade for presidential candidate Jimmy Carter as an indication of Egan's loyalty to Daley.

"I DON'T KNOW whether my opponent genuflects before the great one," Carey said, "but this sign says 'Ed Egan salutes Mayor Daley and President Carter' and Daley is first . . . because Daley is always first."

Egan said he was not ordered to give up his judgeship, which he could have held for nine years before seeking reelection.

"I'm not the smartest man in the world, but I'm no chump. I ask you, what could Mayor Daley have done to me if I said I wouldn't leave the court? Absolutely nothing," Egan said.

Egan said he decided to run for office because "I have a strong feeling for the office" and under Carey "I see an office that has become a publicity mill instead of a prosecutor's office."

Donors needed in blood shortage

The North Suburban Blood Center, Northbrook, Tuesday reported an acute shortage of blood available to North and Northwest suburban hospitals.

The average daily demand for blood among the 11 area hospitals served by the blood center is 2 to 2½ times the amount of blood being donated, a blood bank administrator said.

The current shortage was confirmed by the blood bank at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where technicians said blood types B and B negative were in especially short supply.

The North Suburban Blood Center said that all types of blood were needed.

The center currently is supplying 100 to 125 pints of blood a day to hospitals in the system, including all four Nrthwest suburban hospitals. But donations of blood have dwindled to an average of only 45 to 50 pints a day.

Persons interested and able to be a blood donor may call the North Suburban Blood Center at 498-9840 or the community hospital near their home for an appointment.

Presidential power phase-out bill signed by Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford signed a bill Tuesday phasing out many of the emergency powers wielded by the White House over the last 40 year. But he insisted part of the measure is unconstitutional.

The act will phase out over a two-year period the authority given to every president since Franklin D. Roosevelt to do such things as regulate private enterprise, send troops abroad, declare martial law, seize property and restrict individual travel.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, attending the bill-signing ceremony, said it would eliminate a president's "virtually dictatorial power."

As these powers are eliminated over a two-year period, Congress will be given enough time to write permanent laws allowing presidents to keep only some of their emergency authority.

"I support the purposes of the enrolled bill," Ford said in a statement. "One of its provisions, however, would purport to permit the Congress to terminate a national emergency by a concurrent resolution. This feature of the bill is unconstitutional."

The President said this provision violates the Constitution's separation of powers by allowing a congressional resolution to undo an administrative act. He said he had ordered the attorney general to fight it in the courts.

The state of emergency powers were used by Roosevelt during the Depression to close the nation's banks for a time. Harry S. Truman used them in 1950 during the Korean War. Richard M. Nixon used them in 1970 against a postal strike and again in 1971 to put currency and foreign trade measures into effect.

Prior to the bill signing, Ford said in a live television interview that Congress is keeping him from the campaign trail.

"When we do have an opportunity, following the time when Congress adjourns, we certainly will be campaigning," he said. "But right now, with Congress in session, it is vitally important that somebody be here to have a check on their activities."

The Senate, meantime, approved a bill promising $41 billion in revenue sharing to state and local governments over six years, and adding new civil rights provisions. The vote was 80 to 4. Dissenters were Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.; William Proxmire, D-Wis.; Jesse Helsm, R-N.C., and Wiliam Scott, R-Va.

The bill, extending revenue sharing through September, 1982, now goes to conference with a recently passed House version which would extend the program only through September, 1980, for a total of $25 billion.

Under the revenue sharing program, launched in 1972, some of the money the federal government collects in taxes is turned over to 39,000 states, counties, cities, towns and townships with very few restrictions on how they can use it.

U.N. delays Vietnam seat decision until November

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Security Council Tuesday decided to postpone a decision on Vietnam's application for membership in the United Nations until after the Nov. 2 U.S. elections.

The decision to postpone action on Vietnam's membership application followed by one day U.S. Ambassador William Scranton's announcement that the United States would veto the application.

A spokesman for Council President Mansur Rashid Kikhia of Libya announced the postponement, saying the Council had decided to defer consideration of the application until November so that the General Assembly could discuss the matter simultaneously during its 31st session.

He said that Vietnam agreed to the delay.

In his brief statement, Kikhia did not mention the U.S. elections, but diplomatic talk in the U.N. has centered on the assumption that the United States could not agree to Vietnam's admission before the elections. Scranton's announcement Monday left no doubt about the U.S. position.

Scranton said President Ford ordered the veto because Vietnam had not given a full accounting of Americans missing in action during the Vietnam war.

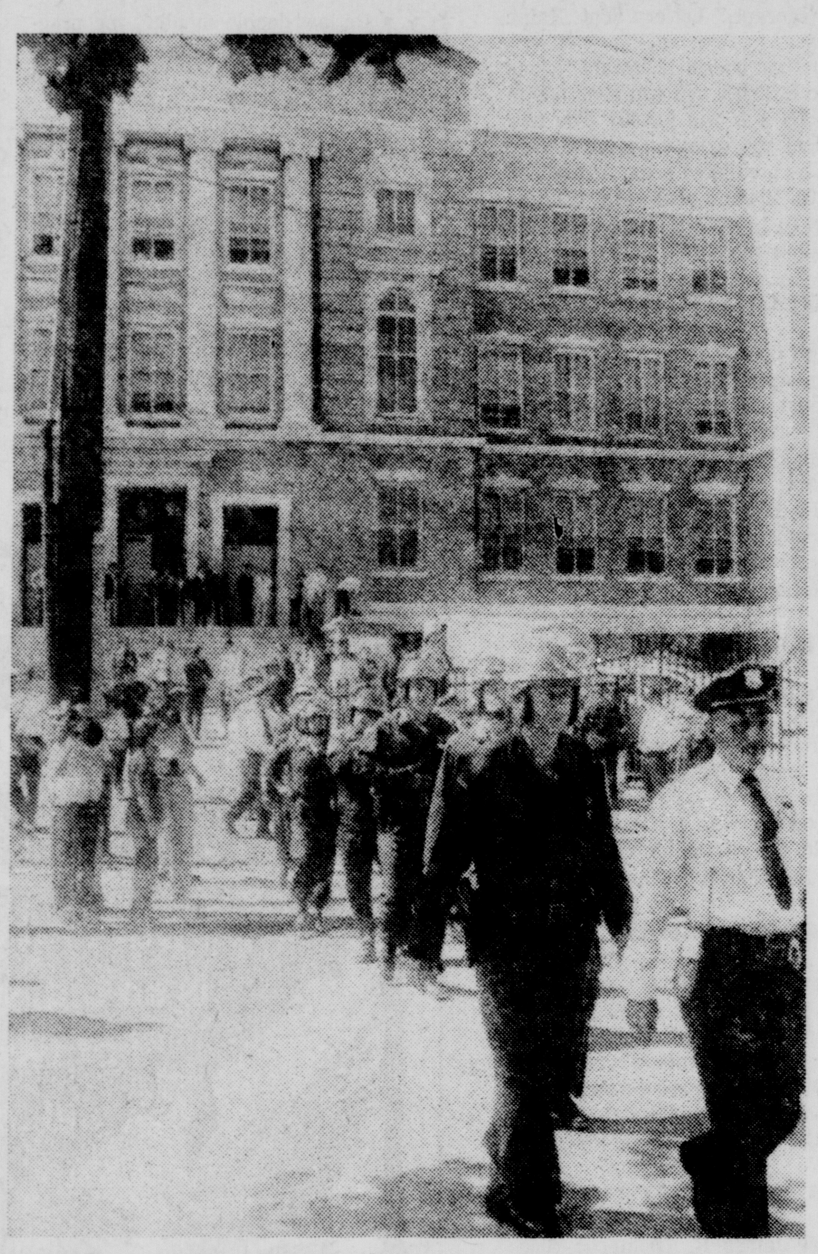
A meeting of the Council's Admission Committee was scheduled to discuss the application Tuesday, but Kikhia announced late Monday that it had been canceled and the Council instead would hold informal consultations.

Diplomatic sources predicted that efforts would be made in the next two months to encourage negotiations between Vietnam and the United States for a solution to the MIA problem.

In the past few days, the Vietnamese have reiterated their position that the question of some 795 MIA's would be negotiated only if the United States lives up to its obligation under the 1973 Paris agreement to contribute to the healing of "the wounds of war."

The U.S. decision to veto the application was praised by an organization presenting families of the missing Americans.

A spokeswoman for the National League of Families of POW's and MIAs said the organization was "gratified and pleased" by the action. She said the recent release by Vietnam of the names of 12 U.S. pilots killed in action was a "transparent ploy to soften the U.S attitude toward their adimttance."



MEMBERS OF BOSTON'S Tactical Police Force leave South Boston High School Tuesday where two black students were injured in separate racial fights. One black student was arrested for allegedly punching a white nurse who treated a cut on his face. Police are increasing patrols at the school as a result of the incidents.

Demonstrators shout 'No CIA' to Kissinger

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — Youthful demonstrators shouting "No CIA in Africa" Tuesday greeted Secretary of State Henry Kissinger as he arrived at the first stop of his diplomatic journey seeking peace for southern Africa.

The demonstrators, shouting "Kissinger go home," were enthusiastic but peaceful. They carried well-made signs saying, "No dialogue through Kissinger," "No CIA in Africa" and "We don't want Imperialists here."

Armed soldiers stood between Kissinger and the crowd and there was no attempt by the youthful demonstrators to approach the secretary of state, who was being greeted by Tanzanian officials.

Kissinger scheduled his first meeting with Tanzanian President Jules Nyerere Wednesday.

This is the first stop that probably will cover six African capitals and the use of demonstrators dramatically underlined some of the problems that Kissinger expects to encounter during his estimated 10-day shuttle in southern Africa.

While not referring directly to the demonstrators, Kissinger said soon after his arrival, "I've come here to discuss the prospects of peace in southern Africa. This initiative started at the request of African leaders. The United States wants nothing for itself except for its interest in peace."

Soviets denounce Japan, U.S. in MIG case

The Soviet Union denounced Japan Tuesday for failing to return a Soviet pilot and his top-secret fighter plane and sharply attacked the United States for granting the airman asylum. In the first Soviet reaction to the loss of the supersonic MIG25 fighter, the Tass news agency said pilot Viktor Belenko lost his way when he landed in Japan Sept. 6 and strongly suggested he was forced to defect. Tass said White House statements on the affair had been "instigatory" and charged "American secret agencies were clearly behind the invitation to the Soviet airman."

12 S. African rioters killed by police

South African police Tuesday killed 12 black rioters who attacked fellow blacks with spears and clubs in the Soweto ghetto, police sources and residents of the huge black township said. Workers' resistance to black militants' call for a three-day general strike against white-owned industry in the Johannesburg area caused outbreaks that have killed 20 people in the past two days, the sources said. All but two of the victims were shot by police, who moved in to break up the battles with guns and tear gas.

Kennedy wins Massachusetts primary

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy easily won the Democratic nomination for a third six-year term in Massachusetts Tuesday. As expected, Kennedy beat two other Democrats, both critical of his support of court-ordered busing in Boston. He is heavily favored to win reelection in November against Republican Mike Robertson, who had no primary opposition.

In New York, former U.N. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan beat Rep. Bella Abzug and three other Democrats for the nomination to challenge Sen. James Buckley for a coveted New York Senate seat in November. In Minnesota, Sen. Hubert Humphrey easily defeated a political unknown, Dick Bullock. Primaries were also held in 9 other states.

Ehrlichman asks conviction reversal

Former Nixon White House aide John D. Ehrlichman, under orders to begin a 20-month to five year prison term Friday, asked the Supreme Court Tuesday to reverse his conviction for ordering a break-in at Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office in 1971. Ehrlichman's Supreme Court appeal was handled routinely. The Watergate Special Prosecutor's office has 50 days in which to respond, so the justices are unlikely to act on the appeal until at least the end of November.

Ehrlichman, who was Richard M. Nixon's domestic affairs advisor, was convicted of violating the civil rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, a Beverly Hills, Calif. psychiatrist who was treating Ellsberg, then facing trial for disclosing the so-called Pentagon Papers detailing the growth of U.S. involvement in Vietnam. A jury found Ehrlichman guilty of ordering a break-in by White House "plumbers" into Fielding's office seeking to copy Ellsberg's medical records.

More Ford-Carter debate dates set

The League of Women Voters announced Tuesday the second and third nationally televised debates between President Ford and Jimmy Carter would be held at so-far undetermined locations Oct. 6 and Oct. 22. The first is Sept. 23. Robert Dole and Walter Mondale will debate some time during the week of Oct. 11, the league said.

Smoker death rates analyzed

Risk less with low tar cigarettes

COLD SPRING HARBOR, N.Y. (UPI) — Smokers of low tar and nicotine cigarettes run less risk of cancer and heart disease than those who smoke brands with high tar and nicotine content, cancer scientists said Tuesday.

The scientists stressed, however, that death rates among smokers of low tar and low nicotine cigarettes were "far higher" than the death rates of non-smokers.

Statistics supporting these findings were presented at closing sessions of a week-long cancer meeting at Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory and came from an analysis of deaths among one million persons over a 12-year period, Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond said.

Health detectives kept track of the cause of death and smoking history of those who died.

Hammond and associates at he American Cancer Society, said deaths for "low" T-N — tar-nicotine — smokers from lunch cancer were 26 per cent less than for "high" T-N smokers; for "medium" T-N smokers it was 10 per cent less.

Corresponding figures for heart disease were 8 per cent less for "medium" T-N and 14 per cent less for "low" T-N.

Hammond, in the report at an international conference on "The Origins of Human Cancer," stressed that death rates among smokers of the low tar and low nicotine cigarettes were "far higher" than the death rates of non-smokers.

Scientists defined "high" T-N as 2.0 to 2.7 mg. of nicotine and 25.8 to 35.7 mg. of tar. Low t-N was defined as less than 1.2 mg. of nicotine with most of them, the scientists said, delivering less than 17.6 mg. of tar.

Americans smoked 607.2 billion cigarettes in 1975, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, up from 541.3 billion in 1966.

A spokesman for the Tobacco Institute in Washington, D.C., said that about 45 per cent of the cigarettes smoked in America are low tar as defined by the cancer society.

And the National Cancer Institute said the trend in the last 20 years has been to a less potent cigarette — in terms of tar and nicotine conent.

In 1955, the NCI said, the average tar yield was 43 mg. and the average nicotine yield, 2.8 mg. In 1975 comparable averages were 18 mg. tar and 1.2 mg. nicotine.

Hammond said the statistics suggest that a much larger reduction in the average tar and nicotine content of cigarettes would be of considerable public health importance.

William Kloepfer Jr., senior vice president of the Tobacco Institute, disputes the conclusions.

"There is no statistical evidence that should be regarded as definitive," he said.

"We still, despite the application of government, industry and other research funds, have not been able to bring about lung cancer, for example, in laboratory animals with the inhalation of whole tobacco smoke.

"Whether it was high tar or low tar has made no difference in the countless experiments.

"What we need is some intensive workbench science rather than more numbers."

Report skyjackers planned terror attack for month

NEW YORK (UPI) — Croatian nationalists charged in a bizzare airline hijacking were preparing for a terrorist attack a month before they commandeered the jetliner, according to evidence revealed Tuesday.

Manhattan District Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau said the information about the plot came from an informant, who was not identified. He said the tipster did not tell police what he knew until after the hijacking.

The five hijack suspects also were being questioned by police for their possible involvement with the Dec. 29 bombing at New York's La Guardia Airport that left 11 dead. The bomb had been hidden in a LaGuardia baggage locker.

"We are investigating the possibility of a link between the two bombings," a police department spokesman said. "But at this point we have nothing concrete."

Morgenthau also said the informant led police to the New York City apartment of Zvonko Busic, 30, where bomb-making equipment was found. Busic had been identified as the ringleader of the hijackers.

Busic and his wife, Julienne, 27, were among the five persons held in $1 million bail each on federal air piracy charges in connection with the seizure Friday of a Trans World Airlines jetliner bound from New York to Chicago with 85 passengers aboard.

The hijackers have been charged with second degree murder in the death of police officer Brian Murray who was killed trying to disarm the bomb allegedly placed by the hijackers in the Grand Central locker. The 27-year-old Murray was buried Tuesday at Rockville Centre, N.Y.

Among officials who attended the funeral were FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley and Mayor Abrahame Beame. Most of the other 4,000 mourners were uniformed police officers.

In the affidavit Morgenthau filed in support of a warrant for searching Busic's apartment, he said:

"I am informed by an individual whose identity will be made known to the court on request that he met and spoke with Busic a month ago in Brooklyn who told him he, Busic, was in possession of bombs and other weaponry and he, Busic, gave his telephone number to said informant."

Morgenthau said, however, the informant "did not tell us anything until the hijacking occurred."

Asked if the informant knew of plans for the hijacking, Morgenthau said the tipster's information indicated the Croatians had been planning some sort of terrorist attack as long as a month ago.

The bomb the terrorists left in Grand Central was accompanied by an eight-page manifesto about conditions in Croatia, a section of Yugoslavia.

A meeting of the Council's Admission Committee was scheduled to discuss the application Tuesday, but Kikhia announced late Monday that it had been canceled and the Council instead would hold informal consultations.

Diplomatic sources predicted that efforts would be made in the next two months to encourage negotiations between Vietnam and the United States for a solution to the MIA problem.

In the past few days, the Vietnamese have reiterated their position that the question of some 795 MIA's would be negotiated only if the United States lives up to its obligation under the 1973 Paris agreement to contribute to the healing of "the wounds of war."

The U.S. decision to veto the application was praised by an organization presenting families of the missing Americans.

A spokeswoman for the National League of Families of POW's and MIAs said the organization was "gratified and pleased" by the action. She said the recent release by Vietnam of the names of 12 U.S. pilots killed in action was a "transparent ploy to soften the U.S attitude toward their adimttance."

One black student was arrested for allegedly punching a white nurse who treated a cut on his face. Police are increasing patrols at the school as a result of the incidents.

Demonstrators shout 'No CIA' to Kissinger

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — Youthful demonstrators shouting "No CIA in Africa" Tuesday greeted Secretary of State Henry Kissinger as he arrived at the first stop of his diplomatic journey seeking peace for southern Africa.

The demonstrators, shouting "Kissinger go home," were enthusiastic but peaceful. They carried well-made signs saying, "No dialogue through Kissinger," "No CIA in Africa" and "We don't want Imperialists here."

Armed soldiers stood between Kissinger and the crowd and there was no attempt by the youthful demonstrators to approach the secretary of state, who was being greeted by Tanzanian officials.

Kissinger scheduled his first meeting with Tanzanian President Jules Nyerere Wednesday.

This is the first stop that probably will cover six African capitals and the use of demonstrators dramatically underlined some of the problems that Kissinger expects to encounter during his estimated 10-day shuttle in southern Africa.

While not referring directly to the demonstrators, Kissinger said soon after his arrival, "I've come here to discuss the prospects of peace in southern Africa. This initiative started at the request of African leaders. The United States wants nothing for itself except for its interest in peace."

Soviets denounce Japan, U.S. in MIG case

The Soviet Union denounced Japan Tuesday for failing to return a Soviet pilot and his top-secret fighter plane and sharply attacked the United States for granting the airman asylum. In the first Soviet reaction to the loss of the supersonic MIG25 fighter, the Tass news agency said pilot Viktor Belenko lost his way when he landed in Japan Sept. 6 and strongly suggested he was forced to defect. Tass said White House statements on the affair had been "instigatory" and charged "American secret agencies were clearly behind the invitation to the Soviet airman."

12 S. African rioters killed by police

South African police Tuesday killed 12 black rioters who attacked fellow blacks with spears and clubs in the Soweto ghetto, police sources and residents of the huge black township said. Workers' resistance to black militants' call for a three-day general strike against white-owned industry in the Johannesburg area caused outbreaks that have killed 20 people in the past two days, the sources said. All but two of the victims were shot by police, who moved in to break up the battles with guns and tear gas.

Kennedy wins Massachusetts primary

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy easily won the Democratic nomination for a third six-year term in Massachusetts Tuesday. As expected, Kennedy beat two other Democrats, both critical of his support of court-ordered busing in Boston. He is heavily favored to win reelection in November against Republican Mike Robertson, who had no primary opposition.

In New York, former U.N. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan beat Rep. Bella Abzug and three other Democrats for the nomination to challenge Sen. James Buckley for a coveted New York Senate seat in November. In Minnesota, Sen. Hubert Humphrey easily defeated a political unknown, Dick Bullock. Primaries were also held in 9 other states.

Ehrlichman asks conviction reversal

Former Nixon White House aide John D. Ehrlichman, under orders to begin a 20-month to five year prison term Friday, asked the Supreme Court Tuesday to reverse his conviction for ordering a break-in at Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office in 1971. Ehrlichman's Supreme Court appeal was handled routinely. The Watergate Special Prosecutor's office has 50 days in which to respond, so the justices are unlikely to act on the appeal until at least the end of November.

Ehrlichman, who was Richard M. Nixon's domestic affairs advisor, was convicted of violating the civil rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, a Beverly Hills, Calif. psychiatrist who was treating Ellsberg, then facing trial for disclosing the so-called Pentagon Papers detailing the growth of U.S. involvement in Vietnam. A jury found Ehrlichman guilty of ordering a break-in by White House "plumbers" into Fielding's office seeking to copy Ellsberg's medical records.

More Ford-Carter debate dates set

The League of Women Voters announced Tuesday the second and third nationally televised debates between President Ford and Jimmy Carter would be held at so-far undetermined locations Oct. 6 and Oct. 22. The first is Sept. 23. Robert Dole and Walter Mondale will debate some time during the week of Oct. 11, the league said.

Smoker death rates analyzed

Risk less with low tar cigarettes

COLD SPRING HARBOR, N.Y. (UPI) — Smokers of low tar and nicotine cigarettes run less risk of cancer and heart disease than those who smoke brands with high tar and nicotine content, cancer scientists said Tuesday.

The scientists stressed, however, that death rates among smokers of low tar and low nicotine cigarettes were "far higher" than the death rates of non-smokers.

Statistics supporting these findings were presented at closing sessions of a week-long cancer meeting at Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory and came from an analysis of deaths among one million persons over a 12-year period, Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond said.

Health detectives kept track of the cause of death and smoking history of those who died.

Hammond and associates at he American Cancer Society, said deaths for "low" T-N — tar-nicotine — smokers from lunch cancer were 26 per cent less than for "high" T-N smokers; for "medium" T-N smokers it was 10 per cent less.

Corresponding figures for heart disease were 8 per cent less for "medium" T-N and 14 per cent less for "low" T-N.

Hammond, in the report at an international conference on "The Origins of Human Cancer," stressed that death rates among smokers of the low tar and low nicotine cigarettes were "far higher" than the death rates of non-smokers.

Scientists defined "high" T-N as 2.0 to 2.7 mg. of nicotine and 25.8 to 35.7 mg. of tar. Low t-N was defined as less than 1.2 mg. of nicotine with most of them, the scientists said, delivering less than 17.6 mg. of tar.

Americans smoked 607.2 billion cigarettes in 1975, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, up from 541.3 billion in 1966.

A spokesman for the Tobacco Institute in Washington, D.C., said that about 45 per cent of the cigarettes smoked in America are low tar as defined by the cancer society.

And the National Cancer Institute said the trend in the last 20 years has been to a less potent cigarette — in terms of tar and nicotine conent.

In 1955, the NCI said, the average tar yield was 43 mg. and the average nicotine yield, 2.8 mg. In 1975 comparable averages were 18 mg. tar and 1.2 mg. nicotine.

Hammond said the statistics suggest that a much larger reduction in the average tar and nicotine content of cigarettes would be of considerable public health importance.

William Kloepfer Jr., senior vice president of the Tobacco Institute, disputes the conclusions.

"There is no statistical evidence that should be regarded as definitive," he said.

"We still, despite the application of government, industry and other research funds, have not been able to bring about lung cancer, for example, in laboratory animals with the inhalation of whole tobacco smoke.

"Whether it was high tar or low tar has made no difference in the countless experiments.

"What we need is some intensive workbench science rather than more numbers."

By rejecting the messages from the Soviet Union, Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, the Chinese indicated Mao's death would bring no immediate easing of the Sino-Soviet ideological feud Mao launched almost two decades ago.

The HMS Bronington was only supposed to be hunting make-believe mines. This one, however, was real. The prince ordered a team of his divers to attach explosives to the mine, cleared the area of all other vessels and blew it up.

Report skyjackers planned terror attack for month

NEW YORK (UPI) — Croatian nationalists charged in a bizzare airline hijacking were preparing for a terrorist attack a month before they commandeered the jetliner, according to evidence revealed Tuesday.

Manhattan District Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau said the information about the plot came from an informant, who was not identified. He said the tipster did not tell police what he knew until after the hijacking.

The five hijack suspects also were being questioned by police for their possible involvement with the Dec. 29 bombing at New York's La Guardia Airport that left 11 dead. The bomb had been hidden in a LaGuardia baggage locker.

"We are investigating the possibility of a link between the two bombings," a police department spokesman said. "But at this point we have nothing concrete."

Morgenthau also said the informant led police to the New York City apartment of Zvonko Busic, 30, where bomb-making equipment was found. Busic had been identified as the ringleader of the hijackers.

Busic and his wife, Julienne, 27, were among the five persons held in $1 million bail each on federal air piracy charges in connection with the seizure Friday of a Trans World Airlines jetliner bound from New York to Chicago with 85 passengers aboard.

The hijackers have been charged with second degree murder in the death of police officer Brian Murray who was killed trying to disarm the bomb allegedly placed by the hijackers in the Grand Central locker. The 27-year-old Murray was buried Tuesday at Rockville Centre, N.Y.

Among officials who attended the funeral were FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley and Mayor Abrahame Beame. Most of the other 4,000 mourners were uniformed police officers.

In the affidavit Morgenthau filed in support of a warrant for searching Busic's apartment, he said:

"I am informed by an individual whose identity will be made known to the court on request that he met and spoke with Busic a month ago in Brooklyn who told him he, Busic, was in possession of bombs and other weaponry and he, Busic, gave his telephone number to said informant."

Morgenthau said, however, the informant "did not tell us anything until the hijacking occurred."

Asked if the informant knew of plans for the hijacking, Morgenthau said the tipster's information indicated the Croatians had been planning some sort of terrorist attack as long as a month ago.

The bomb the terrorists left in Grand Central was accompanied by an eight-page manifesto about conditions in Croatia, a section of Yugoslavia.

Presidents theme of instant lottery

The Illinois State Lottery is planning to use names and pictures of 35 American presidents in its new instant lottery game scheduled to begin Tuesday. Tickets for the Presidents Instant Lottery will be distributed to lottery sales agents until Dec. 7 and officials estimate 50 million will be sold at $1 each. "Lottery players in Illinois and throughout the country have made instant lotteries more popular than any other lottery concept," Lottery Supt. Ralph Batch told a news conference Tuesday.

On the average, Batch said, better than one in 12 instant tickets will win $2, one in 63 will win $5, one in 15,000 will win $100, one in 34,286 will win $1,000 and one in 68,571 will win $10,000. The new game matches a picture of a president appearing on a silver card with the name of a president hidden by a covered area. A matched picture and name wins an instant $100. Players also win if covered numbers on a series of stubs add up to 1,000 or if there are three matching numbers among six covered numbers on a single stub.

School penalty 'unconstitutional'

A judge Tuesday ruled that Chicago doesn't have to pay a $53.3 million penalty for having closed its schools early last spring on grounds the state's early-closing penalty is unconstitutional. The ruling was made by Cook County Circuit Court Judge Arthur L. Dunne in a suit involving the Chicago Board of Education, Illinois state comptroller George W. Lindberg, and the Illinois Board of Education. Chicago schools closed 16 days early last spring, and under state law, they are required to pay a penalty for each day for a total of $53.3 million. But attorneys for the city's Board of Education argued the penalty was unconstitutional

U of I seeks 12% funding hike

University of Illinois Pres. John Corbally Tuesday proposed a 12 per cent funding increase for the school's operations in the 1977-78 school year, a budget that would require $276.6 million in state funds. Corbally was to present the budget for approval today to the U of I board of trustees. From there it goes to the Illinois Board of Higher Education and on to the state legislature. Under Corbally's proposal, the U of I would get $31 million more in state aid in the fiscal year beginning next July than it got this year.

Racial fighting closes school

Bloom Township High School was closed Tuesday when fighting broke out between black and white students. Police said two girls were slightly injured and 21 persons arrested. Principal Eugene Newbauer ordered the closing after a "confrontation" erupted between the students during the school's fourth period lunch break. He said 12 plate glass windows and two plate glass doors were shattered by rocks and bricks. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

Thompson attacks waste, fraud

Republican gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson, Tuesday issued a lengthy position paper on public aid, which included proposals for cutting down on waste, fraud and mismanagement. At news conferences in Chicago, Rockford, Peoria and Springfield, Thompson said both welfare recipients and taxpayers are victims of the present system.

Thompson's plan calls for improved administration of Illinois' Washington, D.C., office. He also suggested the Illinois Dept. of Public Aid be empowered to compel other departments to comply with the federal regulations. Thompson said another problem — the IDPA's "policy of management by crisis" — could be solved by making the department's operations more professional and establishing reachable goals. He proposed the creation of an office of welfare fraud control to handle the problem of persons illegally receiving aid. He also recommended improving vocational training and job placement programs to help persons on welfare "reach the level of pride and self respect that only productive employment brings."

Man charged in cop's death

A policeman with an outstanding record was shot to death Monday night while trying to make a narcotics arrest. The suspected gunman was charged with murder Tuesday. Officer Patrick J. Crowley, 32, a 10-year veteran with 228 honorable mentions for outstanding service and three department commendations, died with a bullet in his forehead as he moved in on the suspected drug dealers. Officers charged Willie Lewis, 27, with murder in Crowley's death and with two counts of attempted murder for allegedly firing at two other policemen.

Thompson raps tax speedup plan

Republican gubernatorial candidate James Thompson said Tuesday he will not support Gov. Daniel Walker's $95 million tax acceleration package despite Walker's pledge to put $45 million of the total in the bank. Instead, Thompson said, he will try to convince GOP lawmakers to accelerate $60 million in sales tax receipts and to give all of that money to schools.

Walker earlier, in a surprise attempt to win Thompson's support for his program, pledged to spend only $50 million of the $95 million he hopes to get by accelerating tax collections and asked Thompson to meet with him during his Springfield visit to discuss any other problems. Thompson stopped short of saying directly that he does not trust Walker to live up to that pledge. But, the GOP standard bearer said, "His record demonstrates that on occasion he has promised to do things that he has not done."

"I will leave it to the members of the General Assembly to decide whether to believe the governor's promises," Thompson said. "If the members of the General Assembly believe it's safe to believe the governor will put $45 million in the bank for his successors, then they should vote to accelerate the whole $95 million.

The school aid-tax collection issue was propelled into the special session — and the gubernatorial campaign — when Walker used his veto powers to trim $84.5 million from this year's school and appropriation. He said he would agree to restore $50 million of the cut if the lawmakers would reconsider their defeat of his tax acceleration program. About half of the $50 million would go to Chicago.

Crime unit probes fatal fire

South Beloit crime laboratory technicians attempted Tuesday to detect gasoline or gunpowder on any of the four persons found dead in a burning house Monday. The dead, all apparent gunshot victims, were identified as Mary Leveringston, 35, her daughters Lynette, 15, and Ramona, 8, and a friend, Eddie Warner, 32. Winnebago County authorities said the four moved to the house a half mile west of South Beloit from Milwaukee about three months ago and occupied the home of Miss Leveringston's grandmother, who died a short time earlier.

Legislators to be urged to pass honesty articles

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Having failed to get its proposed constitutional amendments on the November ballot, the Coalition for Political Honesty said Tuesday it will try to accomplish its goals through the Illinois Legislature.

Coalition leader Patrick Quinn told reporters at a news conference that workers will ask legislative candidates to:

• Outlaw double dipping, the practice of state legislators and other state officials holding two or more public paying jobs.

• Prohibit legislators from voting on bills in which they have a personal or financial interest.

• Support a constitutional amendment giving citizens the right to petition for constitutional changes through petitions and ballot referendums.

The coalition obtained 635,000 signatures from citizens supporting efforts to get constitutional amendments prohibiting double dipping and so-called conflict of interest voting in the legislature.

BUT SAMUEL Witwer, president of the 1970 state constitutional conventon that framed the new constitution, filed suit contending the constitution gives citizens only a limited right to petition for legislative changes. The Illinois Supreme Court upheld that view, and the issues will not be on the November ballot.

Quinn said because the issues will not be on the ballot, members of the Coalition for Political Honesty will ask all legislative, state and Supreme Court candidates where they stand on the questions.

Results of the survey will be made public, he said, and the coalition hopes to pressure the legislature into passing the proposals.

"The Illinois Supreme Court may have knocked the Political Honesty amendments off the November ballot," Quinn said, "but they haven't knocked the desire for tough ethics laws out of the minds of Illinois citizens."

Village to act as catalyst in anti-vandal program

The Arlington Heights Village Board will act as a catalyst for the formation of an independent citizens' group to start and oversee anti-vandalism programs in the village.

The formation of the citizens' group was recommended by the village's zero vandalism committee which made its final report to the board Monday. Trustee Robert Miller, committee chairman, said an independent committee would be able to act quicker than a committee formed by the village board.

But if an independent citizens' committee is not formed and in operation within 60 days, the village board should appoint a standing committee to implement the programs recommended by the zero vandalism committee, Miller said.

A MEETING WILL be held "in a couple weeks" to which all interested persons will be invited, Miller said.

"The village will chair that meeting to get it started, but then they should elect a chairman and go on their own way. If they want a representative from the village, I'm sure the village would send somebody," he said.

Miller said he is hopeful that the chamber of commerce or some civic organization will sponsor the committee.

It is important that the new committee begin implementing the anti-vandalism programs immediately "or we'll lose our momentum," Miller said.

MILLER SAID there were indications that some members of the zero vandalism committee are willing to organize the independent citizens' committee.

The zero vandalism committee's proposals are that:

- A slide narrative program be developed and shown to all fourth-and sixth-grade students. The board has approved a $500 allocation to pay for the cost of the slide program.
- A fund be developed in each school to pay for damage caused by vandals, with any leftover money to be used for a capital improvement project selected by the students.
- Village parks be closed to coincide with curfew hours for juveniles.
- An anti-vandalism poster campaign be initiated in schools to increase awareness of the cost of vandalism.
- Anti-vandalism bumper stickers and T-shirts be distributed in the community.
- Training of juvenile division officers be continued.
- Written procedures explaining Small Claims Court be distributed.
- Establish a court watch program to evaluate judicial rulings and records of judges.
- Homeowners be taught police procedures for reporting acts of vandalism.
- A police department public relations program be started to stop misunderstandings about what officers can do about vandalism reports.

Trustee Schroeder raps plan committee

Arlington Heights Trustee Madeline Schroeder has criticized the comprehensive plan committee for letting more than a year lapse since its last meeting and failing to recommend planning for the central business district.

"There never has been a meeting called since March of 1975," Mrs. Schroeder said. She urged the board to direct the plan commission to order the comprehensive plan committee to meet.

The board took no action.

"Either we are committed to comprehensive planning or we are not. Nobody seems to be going ahead with this," Mrs. Schroeder said.

The Industrial and Commercial Development Commission needs to know what is planned for the central business district, she said.

A COMPREHENSIVE plan for the remainder of the village already has been passed, but it will not be printed until the downtown portion is completed, the board decided Monday.

Mrs. Schroeder has urged the board to have printed what has been approved, saying it will be "outdated" if it is delayed until the downtown portion is finished.

"The plan commission should be directed to see that the comprehensive plan committee meets or we should forget about comprehensive planning," Mrs. Schroeder said.

"The planning department must be frustrated that five years of work is not coming to fruition," she said.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan called Mrs. Schroeder's complaints "nitpicking."

"To suggest that the village is not interested in comprehensive planning simply belies the facts," Ryan said.

The comprehensive plan should not be printed until the central business district plan is finished in order to save printing costs, he said.

"JUST BECAUSE something is published in a book does not indicate planning," Ryan said.

William Hannum, chairman of the comprehensive plan committee, said Tuesday he has no plans to conduct a meeting.

Hannum said there is "no specific reason" the committee has not met. "I don't really want to get into it (the reasons)," he said. "We'll get to it soon."

Lecture at St. Raymond

Roman Catholic theologian, author and mother Rosemary Radford Ruether will speak about male-female relationships at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 3 in St. Raymond parish center, 300 S. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Ruether, professor of applied theology at the United Methodist Church's Garrett Evangelical Seminary in Evanston and a faculty member at Barat College in Lake Forest, titled her subject "Mutuality: Growing to Fuller Man-Woman Understanding."

Tickets for the lecture are $1.50 for students and senior citizens and $3 for the general public.

From streetlight assessment

Special tax unit may exempt 12

Twelve residential property owners may be exempt from a special assessment tax district to finance streetlights along Northwest Highway.

Court action to create the special assessment tax district was delayed Monday by the village board until the question of whether the homeowners should be included in the district is resolved.

Thomas Duda, an attorney for seven of the property owners included in the assessment district, appeared before the board Monday night to complain about the residential parcels being included.

VILLAGE TRUSTEES agreed that they had not intended for residential properties to be included in the tax district created to pay for sodium-vapor streetlights along Northwest Highway, between Highland Avenue and the village's west boundary.

The decision to include the 12 residential properties was made by the previous village board in October 1974, but that action was delayed when a dispute arose over the type of lights, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said.

The present board voted last March to have sodium-vapor lights installed on arterial highways and the Board of Local Improvements subsequently resubmitted the Northwest Highway lighting proposal. The ordinance creating the special assessment district was passed by the board this summer and filed in Cook County Circuit Court.

The Sept. 20 deadline for filing objections to the assessment district will be extended because of the board's action Monday night.

THE BOARD decided to delay the court action to create the special assessment district because several trustees said they were under the impression that the district would not include the residential properties.

"I thought the board of trustees took a definite stand on this and withdrew those 12," Trustee David Griffin said.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the 12 residential property owners were not excluded because it would have required starting the whole procedure over again.

The issue will be discussed again at the board's meeting Oct. 4.

Panel urges cut in exhibitors' fees

A reduction of exhibitor's licensing fees has been recommended by the legal committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board at the request of Arlington Park Race Track.

The committee agreed that exhibitors should be charged $100 per day, rather than 3 per cent of the gross attendance receipts.

The 3 per cent license fee was not strictly enforced until last year when the village applied the charge to the 10-day Midwest Boat Show and a four-day ski show, netting the village more than $3,500.

EXHIBITIONS THAT do not charge admission have been charged on a daily basis. The rate last year was raised from $17 to $25 per day.

All shows, regardless of whether they charge admission, should be charged $100 per day and a maximum of $750, according to the committee's recommendation.

Arlington Park officials requested the licensing change in June, saying the fee could cause exhibitors to move their shows to a new exhibition center in Rosemont.

"We agree the village should be compensated for any incremental services, but the fees it charges shouldn't be prohibitive," said Sheldon Robbins, Arlington Park treasurer.

Other businesses in the village also benefit from the exhibitions, which in turn adds to the village's sales tax revenue, Robbins said.

"The issue is whether this fee should be used to recoup costs or to raise revenue, said Trustee David Griffin, legal committee chairman.

"I was never of the opinion this was to be a big money-maker. I feel we shouldn't drive away shows with this. Let's just get reimbursed for our expenses," Trustee August Bettman said.

FINANCE DIRECTOR Kenneth Bonder said that inspection costs vary with the size of the show but estimated that the average cost to the village for the longer shows is about $400.

Bonder recommended that the fee to exhibitors not be assessed on a daily basis.

"I feel that a per diem rate would not be the answer for the larger shows, since they may require more inspections. Also, a per diem rate would have to be changed yearly when wages and fringe benefits of inspecting employes are adjusted," he said in a memo to legal committee members.

The exhibitors prefer a daily charge because it allows them to know exactly what their costs will be, said LeMoine Stitt, attorney for Arlington Park.

Two injured in area accidents

Two Arlington Heights residents suffered minor injuries in unrelated accidents involving moving vehicles in the village Monday afternoon, police reported.

Police said a 16-year-old Arlington Heights girl suffered a cut right foot when a bicycle she was riding crashed into a stopped school bus at 3:32 p.m. Monday.

The girl reportedly was riding westbound on Euclid Avenue east of Northwest Highway when a pedestrian walked into her path. Her bike struck the pedestrian then careened into the bus, police said.

THE GIRL WAS transported to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where she was treated and released.

Injuries to the pedestrian were not reported.

Police said Irma B. Corrigan, 31, of 1331 W. Park St., suffered cuts on her head and legs after a car she was driving was struck head-on by a car driven by Michael A. Nixon, 18, of 2411 Park St., Rolling Meadows.

Police ticketed Nixon with improper lane usage and damage to village property after a car he was driving northbound on Yale Street north of Kirchoff Road crossed into Ms. Corrigan's lane, collided with her car, and then jumped a curb and struck a tree at 12:46 p.m. Monday.

Arlington Heights firefighters transported Ms. Corrigan to Northwest Community, where she was treated and released.

Planning new facilities is not something new for Derks. "We do it quite often in the federal government, since we have facilities in all 50 states," he said.

"I have some ideas about those things, such as crime impact and crime prevention to counteract vandalism. Right now I have 7,000 men in a crime prevention branch. Crime prevention is now one of our biggest activities, and we seem to be effective," Derks said.

"To fight vandalism locally, we have to enlighten the public. We must make them aware of our crime prevention strategy, how to protect themselves and how to harden their facilities," he said.

While he has many ideas, Derks does not anticipate making immediate major changes within the Arlington Heights Police Dept.

"I understand it's well run and established. I'd just like to continue that particular realm if possible," he said.

Klingenmaier and Gregorio said they will present their complaints and a petition signed by residents to the village board.

Keeping a watch on the cheaters

by KURT BAER

Standing watch over the new cheater gates on the Illinois Tollways must leave a man fuming by the end of the day.

Thekhaki-clad tollway guards have been on the job since the first week of August watching the rhythmic swing of the wooden arms that bar the way of any who would cheat on the toll.

Richard E. Blakely, executive director of the Tollway Authority, says guards will continue to man the toll plazas 18 or 24 hours a day every day of the year just in case the gates break their mechanical stride.

THERE ARE NOW about 30 guards watching cheater gates and their ranks will soon swell to 50, Blakely said. They are paid $4.55 an hour for an eight-hour day and are considered "a permanent part of the system."

"They're there to see that the gates are operating properly and that people are complying with the regulations," he said. "We can't just leave people at the mercy of the machines."

The guards have a "quasi-police" function and have been called on to settle disputes between man and machine.

"In one instance a driver insisted he had thrown a nickel and a quarter into the basket. But the guard walked over and by looking in a window could see the driver had actually put in only two nickels and politely suggested he add another 20 cents," Blakely said.

BLAKELY SAID the Tollway Authority is "committed to expand" the cheater gates into the automatic lanes at every toll stop on the tollway's main lines.

Cheater gates also may be installed at some exits, he said.

The cost of the guards was included in the $1.2 million cost of installing the gates, Blakely said. The expense is justified, he said, in light of the $2 million in additional revenue the Tollway Authority expects to collect in a year now that drivers have no choice but to pay the toll.

TOLLWAY GUARDS will continue to stand watch next to the six-week-old "cheater gates" in the automatic toll lanes at a salary of $4.55 an hour. Richard Blakely, executive director of the Tollway Authority, said the guards are a "permanent part of the system."

Only sympathy mail fills their letter box.

ROBERT AND GAIL Glueckert will grasp any straw now that might prove beneficial. "We'll listen to anyone," Robert said.

Barbara vanished Aug. 21. She and a girlfriend had attended an outdoor rock concert at a farm on Kurtchzher Road in Huntley, northwest of Elgin.

Tuesday night Robert Glueckert drove to the City of Elgin Council Chambers to listen and to ask questions.

Through a word-of-mouth, radio, television and newspaper campaign, Barbara's parents had asked persons who had attended that concert to meet with them. They need clues, any clues.

Barbara's parents sat in their living room Monday night, attempting to explain this agony that has been thrust into their lives.

"There are times when you feel eternally optimistic that she's going to walk through that door," Robert said.

"You jump when the telephone rings. You get nervous whenever someone drives past the house slowly or pulls into the driveway. You never get over these things.

"There are times that you feel it might not come out as you want," Robert said. "I don't think that's losing hope. You can imagine all types of things that might cause you to become depressed.

"OTHER THINGS MAKE you a little happier," Robert said. "When hope is high, you're more at peace with yourself."

Robert is an engineer. There is a tendency within him to analyze situations and reach deductions.

Gail breaches the gap more simply. "I don't think it ever really leaves you," she said. "It doesn't leave me."

They carry it within them, this ugly truth that a 14-year-old girl, their daughter, might be in need of help somewhere.

The Glueckerts refuse to believe any discussion that Barbara willingly left home. They say that is impossible. Both think Barbara was drugged.

"When she left here that night, Barbara had no intention of running away," Gail said. "Something happened to her after she wentthrouhg pened to her after she went through that door."

Numerous "positive identifications" have checked out negatively. Barbara was reported "sighted" at a party Aug. 22 in forest preserve woods near Elgin.

Other reports have placed Barbara near Wheaton and even in Texas.

NO FRESH LEADS existed last week. Then their telephone rang at 4:30 p.m. Friday. A young girl asked to speak with Barbara's father. Here was a new lead.

The girl recited a series of events that matched with Barbara's disappearance. The girl would not tell them her name. She acted nervous.

"She didn't want to say too much," Robert said. "She made blunders with the English language."

The mystery girl said that Barbara is safe and someplace near home. "We heard what she said, but we didn't hear Barbara," he said. "Barbara could be in Alaska.

"The girl wasn't going to give us too much," he said. "I don't know what she was protecting."

And so it goes for the Glueckerts, forever in circles. They always believed that these agonies happened to other families who lived on other streets in other cities and towns.

HOW DOES ANY family prepare for such a fight? "You don't know how to handle it," Robert said. "You don't even know how to ask for help."

Their anxieties increase as each day passes. "Time is not in our favor," he said. "We can't assume that it's getting any better. We can only think it's getting worse."

But do they ever lose hope?

"We'll get her back," Gail Glueckert said. "Then we'll deal with any problems. Just get her back first. Get ner home."

Clairvoyants aid police in search

tal institution. But now police are stumped again by the disappearance of a high school freshman.

HALLIHAN reluctantly admitted that he has conferred with the clairvoyant, whose observations will not be released to the press.

The clairvoyant said, that "if Barbara is returned, she will not be the same person, mentally speaking," Hallihan said.

Hallihan isn't the only person with a clairvoyant on the Barbara Glueckert case. Her parents have consulted several since her disappearance Aug. 21 at a rock concert in Huntley.

One clairvoyant said that Barbara could be found at a summer home in Wisconsin. "We had police check," said Barbara's father, Robert. "She wasn't there."

ANOTHER PSYCHIC suggested Barbara could be found in a Rockford home. But the address she gave was non-existent.

Hallihan points out that regardless of the psychic's help, "we have to deal in facts only. We must have some documentation to work on an investigation, otherwise there's only speculation. I can't use that."

Tuesday night, only two persons among the 500 who had attended the Aug. 21 rock concert where Barbara was last seen, attended a meeting Robert Glueckert had called to seek new clues. Police said, however, that no new clues were obtained at the meeting.

Keeping a watch on the cheaters

by KURT BAER

Standing watch over the new cheater gates on the Illinois Tollways must leave a man fuming by the end of the day.

Thekhaki-clad tollway guards have been on the job since the first week of August watching the rhythmic swing of the wooden arms that bar the way of any who would cheat on the toll.

Richard E. Blakely, executive director of the Tollway Authority, says guards will continue to man the toll plazas 18 or 24 hours a day every day of the year just in case the gates break their mechanical stride.

THERE ARE NOW about 30 guards watching cheater gates and their ranks will soon swell to 50, Blakely said. They are paid $4.55 an hour for an eight-hour day and are considered "a permanent part of the system."

"They're there to see that the gates are operating properly and that people are complying with the regulations," he said. "We can't just leave people at the mercy of the machines."

The guards have a "quasi-police" function and have been called on to settle disputes between man and machine.

"In one instance a driver insisted he had thrown a nickel and a quarter into the basket. But the guard walked over and by looking in a window could see the driver had actually put in only two nickels and politely suggested he add another 20 cents," Blakely said.

BLAKELY SAID the Tollway Authority is "committed to expand" the cheater gates into the automatic lanes at every toll stop on the tollway's main lines.

Cheater gates also may be installed at some exits, he said.

The cost of the guards was included in the $1.2 million cost of installing the gates, Blakely said. The expense is justified, he said, in light of the $2 million in additional revenue the Tollway Authority expects to collect in a year now that drivers have no choice but to pay the toll.

TOLLWAY GUARDS will continue to stand watch next to the six-week-old "cheater gates" in the automatic toll lanes at a salary of $4.55 an hour. Richard Blakely, executive director of the Tollway Authority, said the guards are a "permanent part of the system."

Catholic TV network begins second season

The second full program season for the Catholic Television Network of Chicago begins this week. The four-channel, color-television station will broadcast weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. to 429 reception sites in the metropolitan Chicago area.

Crane 'indecisiveness' rapped

by STEVE BROWN

Democratic congressional candidate Edwin Frank plans to launch an attack on U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane's political indecisiveness during the remaining campaign days.

Frank, who was trounced by Crane, R-12th, and the landslide which swept former President Richard M. Nixon to a second term in 1972, outlined some of his campaign strategy during a dinner with supporters and the press Monday.

He cited Crane's support of Nixon until a few days before his resignation and his abortive effort to lead a campaign to draft U.S. Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., for president as prime examples of Crane's indecisiveness.

"HIS INDECISIVENESS is an issue in this campaign," Frank said. Although the candidate said he has taken no polls in the district, Frank said. said he believes some Republican voters will cast a protest vote against Crane in this election.

"This is not an ultraconservative district, the people will elect a moderate to conservative Democrat who is willing to work for the people," Frank said.

He also plans to attack Crane on his attendance in Congress earlier this year and intends to make contributions received from persons outside the district an issue in the campaign.

Frank of Hoffman Estates said while Crane attacked contributions made by organized labor to Democratic candidates, the contributions are valid because there are nearly 80,000 union members living in the district.

"WE HAVE DONE a demographic study that suggests this is now a swing district," Frank said. He indicated that he plans to step up his personal campaigning in the coming weeks.

Working from a spartan campaign headquarters in a storefront in Arlington Heights, Frank said he plans to have volunteers silk screen T-shirts for workers and will print most of his own campaign literature.

"We have to make every dollar count and stretch," Frank said. He also has plans to build his own car-top campaign signs in the headquarters.

Part of the reason for the handmade shirts and signs is a lack of money. While a chart on one wall in the headquarters claims he has collected more than $20,000 in contributons, Frank admits the total is closer to $18,000.

HE IS SEEKING contributions from organized labor, but indicates the money is not rolling in.

"I'll ask for their support, but I won't beg," Frank added.

Monday night he received an $800 check from the Communications Workers of America and indicated he hopes to receive more union money before the campaign is over.

Used musical instrument donations asked

A drive to collect used musical instruments will be held this weekend by Urban Gateways, a private nonprofit arts education agency.

The agency has formed a musical instruments bank to collect and refurbish used musical instruments, which are given to music students in Chicago area schools.

Musical instruments can be dropped off at any Chicago area Jewel Food Store during regular store hours Saturday and Sunday.

The monetary value of all donated instruments will be determined by the director of the musical instrument bank, retired New Trier East High School Band Master Samuel Mages. Donors will be advised of values so the gifts can be declared as a tax deduction.

"For years I have seen some wonderfully talented young people frustrated and disappointed in their musical growth because they didn't have instruments to practice on when they really needed them," said Henry Mazer, associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony, who helped kick off the campaign Monday.

"The musical instrument bank is a marvelous concept for recycling used instruments and giving them to some child who will use an instrument and love it," he said.

Crane 'indecisiveness' rapped

by STEVE BROWN

Democratic congressional candidate Edwin Frank plans to launch an attack on U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane's political indecisiveness during the remaining campaign days.

Frank, who was trounced by Crane, R-12th, and the landslide which swept former President Richard M. Nixon to a second term in 1972, outlined some of his campaign strategy during a dinner with supporters and the press Monday.

He cited Crane's support of Nixon until a few days before his resignation and his abortive effort to lead a campaign to draft U.S. Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., for president as prime examples of Crane's indecisiveness.

"HIS INDECISIVENESS is an issue in this campaign," Frank said. Although the candidate said he has taken no polls in the district, Frank said. said he believes some Republican voters will cast a protest vote against Crane in this election.

"This is not an ultraconservative district, the people will elect a moderate to conservative Democrat who is willing to work for the people," Frank said.

He also plans to attack Crane on his attendance in Congress earlier this year and intends to make contributions received from persons outside the district an issue in the campaign.

Frank of Hoffman Estates said while Crane attacked contributions made by organized labor to Democratic candidates, the contributions are valid because there are nearly 80,000 union members living in the district.

"WE HAVE DONE a demographic study that suggests this is now a swing district," Frank said. He indicated that he plans to step up his personal campaigning in the coming weeks.

Working from a spartan campaign headquarters in a storefront in Arlington Heights, Frank said he plans to have volunteers silk screen T-shirts for workers and will print most of his own campaign literature.

"We have to make every dollar count and stretch," Frank said. He also has plans to build his own car-top campaign signs in the headquarters.

Part of the reason for the handmade shirts and signs is a lack of money. While a chart on one wall in the headquarters claims he has collected more than $20,000 in contributons, Frank admits the total is closer to $18,000.

Nyaaa — Nixon appointed him!!

The way we see it

Thompson appointment not issue

Apparently Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett, Mayor Richard J. Daley and some other top Illinois Democrats have not been too observant over the past four years.

It was not until last week that they noticed Republican gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson was appointed by former President Richard M. Nixon as U.S. attorney for northern Illinois.

The revelation was not particularly new, but Howlett, the mayor and other Democrats seem to want to make this an important issue in the campaign.

Howlett has taken to calling Thompson a "Nixon Republican." It appears that this is the only "dirt" the Democrats can find to muddy up the former U.S. attorney's record.

The Democrats are on thin ice on this "issue" though, for every time they raise the point of Thompson's role as federal prosecutor they run the risk of renewing the memory of Democratic politicians Thompson brought to justice — like the late Gov. Otto Kerner and former Chicago Ald. Thomas Keane.

More importantly though, the comments really have no place in the campaign. The fact that Nixon appointed Thompson to the U.S. Attorney's post proves only that the former president had at least one high quality appointment who managed to stay on the right side of the law.

Thompson responded to the Democratic hubbub with a reminder that it was he who called former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew a crook.

It was also interesting to note that a copy of a Howlett speech in which he renewed the "Nixon Republican" label came in the same envelope with Howlett's statement on the court decision clearing him in the Sun Steel fiasco.

"Now it should be possible for my opponents and I to return to the real issues of the campaign . . .," Howlett's release stated.

That sounds like a good idea. The number of days before the election is dwindling, and getting back to the issues should take a high priority in the gubernatorial campaign.

County wise in delaying assessment hearings

The Cook County Board has taken a wise action in delaying a decision on County Assessor Thomas Tully's proposed change in assessment procedures for single family homes.

The board decided last week to defray further public hearings on the proposal until complete figures are available on the impact on local tax collections.

The move shows a sensible regard for acting only with complete information on an issue that is both sensitive and complex.

Tully's proposal calls for lowering the rate at which single family homes are assessed from 22 per cent to 16 per cent of market value. The cut, Tully says, is necessary if homeowners in the county are to be spared huge increases in their assessed values and subsequently in their property tax bills.

The impact of the proposal is complicated because of the nature of the property tax structure. Assessed value of property has only an indirect effect on the amount of taxes paid, but can be an important factor if, as Tully contends, the values of some homes are going to go up 50 or 60 per cent when they are reassessed.

The other important consideration, however, is whether cutting the assessment rate will cripple already financially troubled local governments, particularly school districts, by reducing their property tax base.

Tully and officials of his office say the proposal will not hurt the schools because even with the drop in assessment rates, inflation will force assessments up.

This may be true, and, if so, Tully's proposal is probably a good one. However, the Cook County Board wisely decided to wait for completed figures from the areas being reassessed.

That delay will mean that the impact on taxpayers and on governmental bodies will be explored fully.

Senate seeking proper approach

by STEVE DERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Picture, if you can, 77-year-old Sen. John Sparkman and 75-year-old Sen. John Stennis flipping a coin for the chairmanship of the new Senate National Security Committee.

Not that it will happen. But it could.

An effort is under way to overhaul the Senate's badly outdated committee system and its mushrooming complex of subcommittees.

A staff working paper had been prepared listing three possible approaches.

Plan. No. 1 is the most modest. It would retain the present 31 committees but cut the number of committees and subcommittees on which a senator can serve.

Plan No. 2 cuts the 31 committees to 12.

Plan No. 3 is the most radical. It cuts the 31 to 5 overseer committees with 60 subcommittees contrasted to the present 171 subcommittees.

Because the Senate is highly resistant to change of any kind, options No. 2 and No. 3 are too far out to be even seriously considered — certainly not in January.

But there may be enough appeal in No. 1 as more and more senators concede the present system leads to scheduling difficulties, inefficient use of their time, and as the draft states "unsystematic lawmaking and oversight and inadequate anticipation of major problems."

The basic "characteristics" of plan No. 1 should not raise too many hackles. As usual, senators who might be forced to vacate committee posts under the new program almost certainly would be "grandfathered" in for life.

But the so-called "major options" are the intriguing features of plan No. 1 because they would pit against each other in furious debate the senior barons, jealously guarding their domains.

One of the "major options" of No. 1 is a merging of the Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee into a new National Security Committee.

Would either Sparkman, the chairman of Foreign Relations, or Stennis, the chairman of Armed Services, give up their hard-won thrones. Not likely.

With the exception of the Joint Atomic Committee, which would be abolished, the other committees would stay as they are but get new tasks more in keeping with today's needs.

All energy matters — now spread among several committees — would go to the Interior and Energy Committee. The Public Works committee would handle the environmental problems. Transportation legislation would fall to the Commerce Committee.

The Senate Finance Committee would lose some of its nontax revenue duties, a move not likely to please Chairman Russell B. Long, while plan No. 1 would create a new Health and Nutrition Committee.

Another "major option" is rotation of committee and subcommittee chairmanships — an idea that might have some appeal to a first-termer but very little for a senator who has patiently waited for those senior to him to get beaten, retire or die.

Under the working paper proposal, a chairman would serve perhaps two or three congresses. He could stay on the committee as bottom-man but would be nudged to go seek leadership positions on another committee.

"Rotation is proposed as a way to enable many more senators to have leadership opportunities," the working paper states.

If that proposal ever comes to a vote it will not break on party lines but on seniority — those who got it will want to keep it, those who don't will try to get it.

People helping people in 2 ways: Palatine Crusade needs money...

The efforts of many volunteers came to fruition on Saturday, Sept. 11, when the Palatine Crusade of Mercy erected its flag and thermometer in downtown Palatine. This marked the kick-off of our 1976 campaign.

As one who counts his blessings every day I am very happy that I can contribute my time and money to a truly worthy cause. Even though I contribute at work I have also given to the local campaign. Last year Palatine residents gave almost $28,000, approximately $1 for each person. Will you join me in pledging 50 per cent more this year than last? If you hesitate to give both at work and locally, consider that Palatine received another $46,000 last year from what we gave on jobs outside of Palatine. I have six in my family, and I pledge $2.50 for each member.

We all receive so many requests that it's impossible to give to all. I believe the Crusade of Mercy deserves to rank very high in our priorities, since it has a proven track record, and 95 per cent of what we give will be received by those for whom we intend it! Please send your donations as soon as possible to the Palatine Crusade of Mercy, P.O. Box 241, Palatine, Ill. 60067. Don't forget — it's deductible!

...Volunteer Bureau needs people

The Volunteer Service Bureau mailed in the middle of August over 2,000 letters to volunteers in our area. We were trying to raise funds through Shop & Share Days at Jewel and to learn what volunteers have been doing, what they would like to do, and if they still want to volunteer.

Many of them have been returning our blue questionnaire. It has been most helpful in putting our files up to date. Over 200 letters came back with "Moved, Address Unknown," "Forwarding Time Expired," etc. We have no other alternative but to discard those names.

We are sure that some of those volunteers are still in the area, but we do not know how to reach them. We would like to ask them: "Are you still willing to give of your time?" If you have moved and have not heard from Volunteer Service Bureau in the last few months why not give us a call at 398-1320. We are ready to mail a newsletter with two pages of new exciting volunteer positions for you to fill which will enrich your life. How about it? Remember, you might work for free but certainly not for nothing.

Delivering papers isn't easy job

After four years of deliving papers with few problems my son has run into two Arlington Heights businessmen. The first had a dog who bit him, tore his jeans and resulted in trip to the hospital. This man was not concerned enough to inquire if he was hurt much less offer to pay damages. The second presented him with a bill for $11 for cracking a window he was never shown.

I wonder how many people know that a Herald newsboy earns 49 cents in a two week collection period if he collects and 39 cents if customers pay the office. It takes a lot of papers to pay for jeans, doctor bills and windows.

With the exception of the Joint Atomic Committee, which would be abolished, the other committees would stay as they are but get new tasks more in keeping with today's needs.

All energy matters — now spread among several committees — would go to the Interior and Energy Committee. The Public Works committee would handle the environmental problems. Transportation legislation would fall to the Commerce Committee.

The Senate Finance Committee would lose some of its nontax revenue duties, a move not likely to please Chairman Russell B. Long, while plan No. 1 would create a new Health and Nutrition Committee.

Another "major option" is rotation of committee and subcommittee chairmanships — an idea that might have some appeal to a first-termer but very little for a senator who has patiently waited for those senior to him to get beaten, retire or die.

Under the working paper proposal, a chairman would serve perhaps two or three congresses. He could stay on the committee as bottom-man but would be nudged to go seek leadership positions on another committee.

"Rotation is proposed as a way to enable many more senators to have leadership opportunities," the working paper states.

If that proposal ever comes to a vote it will not break on party lines but on seniority — those who got it will want to keep it, those who don't will try to get it.

Food freezer plans need scrutiny

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

A scattering of letters from readers around the country signals that a rebirth of food freezer plan flimflams may be upon us. This is one of Snake Oil Sam's cyclical ventures, coming and going every few years as if by magic. The timing is right: food prices continue to rise, the cost of getting to and from the market continues to rise, the first hints of fall weather bring out the squirreling instinct in many of us. The freezer plans seem like a convenient and economical way to stock up for the winter. Legitimate ones can be. But the abuses abound, particularly when the victim is willing to believe that he's going to get something for nothing.

A free freezer if you sign up for a food contract is one frequent pitch. But remember: there's no such thing as a free lunch, frozen or defrosted.

Here, courtesy of the Federal Trade Commission, are some of the deceptive tactics used by food freezer firms. Let them serve as fair warning to help you distinguish between firms that make promises and firms that deliver quality.

• False statements that they have been in business for many years longer than they really have been.

• False statements that customers would save money on food purchases, as compared with normal retail prices. Simple comparative shopping trips proved otherwise.

• False statements that customers would receive prime or choice meats, when in fact lesser grades were being delivered. Would you know the difference?

• Spoken guarantees (by the salesmen) that food prices would not change for the three-year life of the contract, when in fact the binding contract stated that prices were subject to change without order. This inflation-protection come-on could have a lot of appeal for victims. But it's the wording in the contract, not the salesman's promises, that controls.

• False statements that letters of testimonial from satisfied customers were real, when in fact they were prepared by the company itself.

• Bogus sweepstakes and contests, which everyone wins, and in which the winner's "$50 prize" is really nothing more than a $50 discount from a freezer deal that has been marked up by an extra $50 to cover the cost of the prize.

• False representations about the true cost of the freezer. It isn't really free. The cost is built in to the complex three-year contract, plus a steep interest charge.

• Perhaps the worst abuse: signing up the victims, taking a good faith deposit of $100 or so and disappearing into the night.

Shop carefully among legitimate dealers for any such plans. Compare prices with what you could do on your own in the supermarket. Bear in mind that the selection and quality of food available may not satisfy your individual family's needs, resulting in waste, which is money lost. Check with your local Better Business Bureau before signing anything.

Dow down 4 as strike threatens

NEW YORK (UPI) — The threat of an auto strike and reportsof layoffs in the steel industry raised questions about the economy and sent prices lower Tuesday in sluggish trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Selling followed a statement by Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, that there was no chance of averting a strike against Ford Motor Co., despite the No. 2 automaker's last-minute bid Monday night.

Investors also were disturbed by reports U.S. Steel and Bethlehem were laying off workers because of a slackening demand that has led analysts to trim earnings estimates for the group and other industries.

AGAINST THAT background, the Dow Jones industrial average, off nearly six points at the outset, finished with a loss of 4.65 to 978.64. The blue-chip average lost 5.07 points Monday.

The NYSE common stock index lost 0.16 to 55.54 and the average price of a common share decreased nine cents. Declines topped advances, 819 to 545, among the 1,855 issues crossing the tape. The 491 unchanged issues reflected considerable investor uncertainty.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, lost 0.35 to 103.94.

Volume totaled 15,550,000 shares, down from the 16,100,000 traded Monday.

U.S. Steel lost 1 to 48¾ and Bethlehem ¾ to 40½ following the layoff reports. Edgar Speer, U.S. Steel chairman, trimmed his estimate of 1976 industry shipments. Analysts said a lull in the industry has become a lag.

Oct. 1 strike OKd on UAW ballot

More than 15,000 United Auto Workers at Deere & Co., International Harvester and Caterpillar in the Quad Cities have authorized union leaders to call a strike Oct. 1 in support of new contract demands, a check of UAW locals showed Tuesday.

Union officials said the strike authorization vote ran as high as 98.5 per cent in some of the locals.

The strike votes covered:

• 7,800 UAW members employed by Deere at the Deere-Harvester works in East Moline, the plow and planter works in Moline, the Milan parts warehouse and the Davenport works.

•5,800 International Harvester workers at the Farmall plant in Rock Island and the East Moline plant.

• 1,800 Caterpillar Tractor workers at plants in Davenport and Riverdale, Iowa.

The UAW is expected to choose one of the Big Three farm implement dealers as a strike target soon and concentrate negotiations with that company. Meanwhile, bargaining is going on at all three firms.

College costs up again: survey

A survey shows that college costs are up again this year, sending the cost of a college education up 25 per cent from the average figure five years ago. The survey, by the American Council on Life Insurance, says the most expensive schooling is offered by the largest private colleges in the Northeast, with the median charge amounting to $4,727. The least expensive schooling is available in a medium-size public college in the South — $1,473 a year, average.

Fossil fuel power plants to stay?

A study by Frost and Sullivan, market research firm, says that over the next decade U.S. utilities will be shifting to construction of fossil fuel electric power plants from nuclear power facilities because fossil fuel plants are easier to manufacture.

By 1985, however, nuclear power generating facilities will begin to account for a larger share of the market, the firm says.

Year in America will soon end for Ceylon nurse

by ELEANOR RIVES

Yasanthie De Silva is going home.

Yasanthie with the soft, smiling eyes; the flashing white teeth in the dark dimpled face; the quick little hug, the tinkling word of encouragement for anyone who needs it.

America loves Yasanthie — at least that cross-section of America that passes through Forest Hospital, a private psychiatric facility in Des Plaines. And Forest Hospital has been Yasanthie's world for the past year.

She is one of several persons from foreign countries who have come to Forest Hospital recently under the sponsorship of administrator Morris B. Squire. From Pakistan, from India, the Philippines, from Israel, France and now from Ceylon, they come to participate in the social therapist training program and to take back to their countries a working knowledge of all the different modalities, the newer approaches in psychiatric treatment methods.

WHEN SQUIRE travels abroad, he makes a point of visiting psychiatric facilities. It is not unusual for a foreign doctor or professor to ask him to sponsor a staff member in the training program at Forest. Forest provides transportation, tuition, room and board for the visiting student.

When Squire visited General Hospital in Colombo, Ceylon, Yasanthie had been a registered nurse there for 12 years, the last five in the psychiatric ward, a teaching center for the university. They were introduced, but no mention was made of the program.

"Three months later, my professor had completed arrangements with Mr. Squire," said Yasanthie. "He asked me, 'Do you like to go to America?' I say, 'Okay.' "

SO ON AUG. 31, 1975, with a year's leave and the blessings of Ceylon's Health Department, Yasanthie boarded the plane for the 34-hour, 14,000 mile trip, landing at O'Hare on Labor Day. At the hospital, a nurse took her to her living quarters in the house across the road.

"In Ceylon, when the professor asked me to conduct groups, I don't know anything, no?" she said. "Now I learn what group therapy really is and how to go about it."

In the weeks that followed, Yasanthie learned not only social therapy but a great deal more. She learned, for example, how to do housework.

"I was crying like everything," she said. "At home everybody has servants. Labor is so cheap. When I was a child, my only responsiblity was to close the window. I didn't even have to switch on the lights. Even now, when I go home, I won't be allowed to do any work."

SHE LEARNED also how it feels to be homesick and for three months covered up that feeling with a smile. She learned, too, to get along without rice, although she longed for it. "At home my staple food is rice," she said. "Rice and meat or fish. Now I can eat anything."

She learned for the first time what snow is like, but would rather watch it through the window than go out in it. "It is so exciting, so beautiful," she said. The pure-white landscape reminded her of the full-moon day of May when the people of Ceylon, predominantly Buddhists, go to the temple garbed completely in white.

Yasanthie, the seventh of eight children, lives in the family home a few yards from the Indian Ocean in Ceylon, or, as she prefers to call it, Sri Lanka. Summer weather prevails for most of the year with the temperature dipping to the 50s or 60s in December, the coldest month.

WHEN HER PARENTS died, her older brothers and sisters took their place as her elders. To show respect on special occasions, such as a wedding or New Year celebration, Yasanthie kneels and touches her forehead to their feet. Her younger sister, in turn does the same to her.

"In Ceylon, 85 per cent of the marriages take place only when the parents approve," she explained. "The parents look into all the details, make all the arrangements, and all marriage ceremonies take place in the presence of parents. And there is less divorce."

Yasanthie was surprised at the freedom American girls have. It amazes her that a girl can come home at midnight if she wishes. "In my country, it is a disgrace for any woman to be seen walking along the road alone after dark," she said. "She must be home before dark or let her parents know she will be late and then be escorted."

WOMEN SELDOM drink or smoke in Ceylon, and liquor is not considered necessary at a party. "We just eat and sing and dance and enjoy ourselves," she said.

Here there is more equality between the sexes and she likes that. She likes, too, the fact that young people can work to help put themselves through school or to earn spending money. In Ceylon, students are not allowed to work until their education is completed.

Regarding parent-child relationships here, Yasanthie solemnly observed, "It's sad in America that parents have no time to look after their children. There is much maternal and paternal deprivation because parents are working. Then when parents grow old, the children have no time to look after them. It's nobody's fault — it's the nature of this country."

THOUGH YASANTHIE'S glimpse of America has been confined to the Chicago area, she will soon have a wider look. When she leaves late in September, she will visit New York City and Washington, D.C. Later she will take a train to San Francisco, stopping off for a view of Salt Lake City.

Then on to Hawaii for a visit, followed by a three-week stay in Australia, three days in Singapore and then home.

"I am the same woman who came from Ceylon, going back to Ceylon," she says as she flashes a smile. "I learned so many things, but I am still the same."

SHE'S ALL SUNSHINE and smiles in yellow lace. Yasanthie (Ya-sont'-tee) De Silva, registered nurse from Ceylon who has spent the past year at Forest Hospital in the social therapy training program, shows administrative secretary Audrey Lehmann how to wind six yards of lace into a stunning sari. Women in Ceylon wear dresses or pants, but don saris for formal occasions.

Gray power a political potential yet to be tapped

by STEVE BROWN

Herald political writer

Politicians are beginning to turn away from the youth voting bloc and look at the other end of the age spectrum for support, because senior citizens are going to the polls in increasing numbers.

While seniors are not yet a cohesive political pressure group, the 20 million plus members of this age group are seen as a potentially decisive force in elections.

The declining birthrate and increased longevity have combined to increase the number of senior citizens, but the current trend suggests that senior citizens vote in larger number than other age groups anyway.

David H. Grimsby of the Suburban Cook County Area Agency on Aging notes that while seniors make up about 15 to 20 per cent of the voting population, they contribute about 30 per cent of the total vote. The statistics show further that between 75 and 80 per cent of the senior citizen bloc go to the polls, a much higher percentage than any other age group.

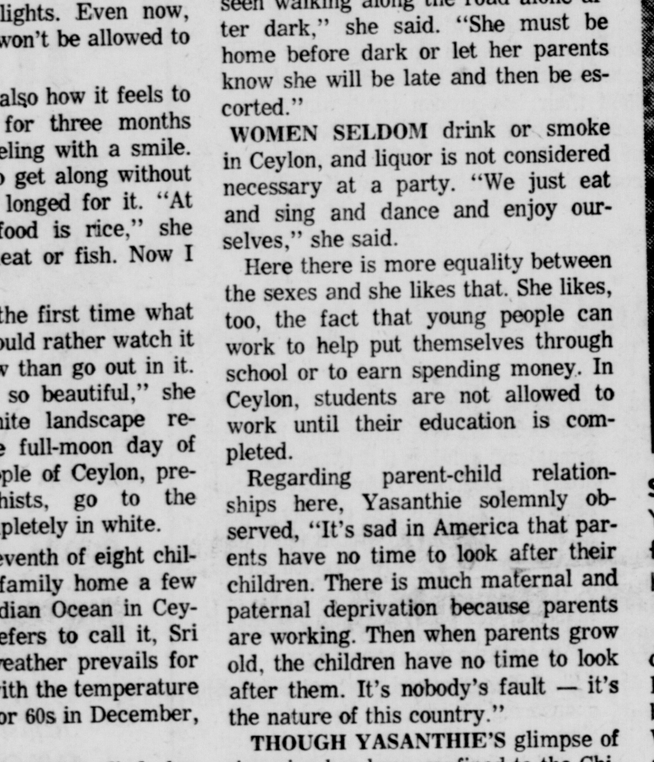
THE NUMBERS are even more important in light of new projections which suggest that fewer than 70 million persons will cast ballots in the November presidential election, less than one-half the number of eligible voters.

A number of observers believe the senior citizen will become an important force.

Organizations like the Gray Panthers are beginning to provide a vocal staging area for senior citizen political efforts.

Political candidates, conscious of this voting bloc, are appointing special coordinators to get their name before senior citizen groups.

"They are obviously interested in candidates and their positions," said Robert Shultz, the senior citizen coordinator for Republican gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson.



SHULTZ SAID he is trying to recruit county coordinators for the Thompson campaign and make sure the organized senior citizen's groups get literature and information on his candidate.

"The seniors we have talked to also want to have input to candidates on their ideas," Shultz added.

Most observers admit that while the seniors are active and have been organized for many social purposes, they remain a relatively untapped political force.

"We have to educate people so they know they have real political power," said Bertha Schlan of the Gray Panthers.

She can tick off issues — health care, tax breaks, ending mandatory retirement, housing — that concern senior citizens, but admits that the concern over issues has not been translated into organized political lobbying.

"WE ARE INVOLVED in trying to raise their consciousness right now," she said noting that many senior citizens have been manipulated and exploited by the government.

"We are working on many things that will benefit seniors, but I also think some of these things will also benefit the country," she added.

Locally Harper College has held seminars aimed at showing seniors that they can become a potent political force.

Harper's Sharon Alter taught several seminars last spring on the issue and indicated the sessions may be repeated next year.

"I think they are just beginning to develop politically. The effort is in the very early stages," Ms. Alter said. She said she taught the groups how to combine various tactics such as petition drives, letter-writing campaigns and meetings into grass roots efforts to correct problems.

"SENIORS FEEL frustrated and some believe that they cannot do anything about the problems. You also have to remember they are a dispersed group," Ms. Alter noted.

But she stated that seniors are impatient for changes in a system that tends to work against them and that impatience can become a motivating force.

"I can see a great untapped affinity between seniors and young people. Both groups are frustrated by the government and I could see the two groups working in a coalition on some issues," said Ms. Alter.

While some politicians like Thompson and Howlett are working to cultivate the senior citizen vote, many active seniors already know the name of at last one Illinois leader who has backed their causes for some time — Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan.

IN THE MIDST of his four-year battle with Gov. Daniel Walker, most observers believe Hartigan has used his office to benefit senior citizens.

He takes credit for establishing a cabinet level Department On Aging, promoting additional tax relief for the elderly and establishing a "first in the nation" telephone hotline for senior citizens who are having problems with state government.

Hartigan gets high marks from most senior citizen groups and there are some who expect other politicians to emulate Hartigan's efforts in the future.

Getting seniors involved probably will not be too difficult and locally groups like the American Association of Retired Persons are starting to stimulate that interest.

"SENIORS ARE beginning to make themselves heard and letting people know they count," said William McKnight of Arlington Heights.

"I think we will have a strong lobby nationwide and will be much better organized," he added.

A victim of the mandatory retirement age, McKnight, 65, said that seniors will probably be willing to listen to politicians and see where they stand on issues.

"I think when we see that politicians are not listening, you can expect to see us throw our weight against them," he added.

Husband's ignorance of law spells trouble for wife

Women and children first

by Julie Martoccio

To S.T.:

I'm sorry, but your letter was too lengthy and the facts too complicated to condense. However, all the answers to your questions are included here.

• Try to remember this. If you and your husband do not have property in joint tenancy and the property is in his name, and further, if he has not provided for you by will or otherwise regarding it, you will be entitled to one-third of the real, and one-half the personal property upon his death.

• If he has not legally adopted your children, then, under the circumstances stated above, his children would be entitled to two-thirds of his real, and one-half of his personal property. Your children would receive nothing.

• Your question "How can I protect myself from his kids' getting most of everything we've built up" doesn't seem to have an answer because your husband refuses to make a will, or otherwise provide the means for you to receive the property.

• You state that the other property, "the farm," still has his ex-wife's name on it . I assume you mean that it is still in joint tenancy. In that case, if the title is not changed, the farm could go to her in the event of his death.

• Because the farm property is in your husband's name, "bringing the title up to date" will not affect the liens you mention, nor will it necessarily, as your husband says, cause the lien holders to proceed against him.

• A major concern here is that you said your husband "never filed the papers on the farm property or brought it up to date," meaning the quit claim deed he received from his ex-wife. Again, I must assume that he did not record the quit claim deed from his ex-wife. This can lead to complications in case of his death.

• Your husband's statement that he doesn't need to do anything about the farm and that in case he dies, "you could not be dispossessed because the Homestead Act protects you and that you could live there for the rest of your life" indicates to me that your husband is misinformed.

Homestead laws apply to the head of the family and the property must be the one in which the family is residing at the time of the spouse's death. The farm house is not your residence.

Because you are greatly worried, I suggest that you try to get your husband to understand the problems that you will be facing. It is obvious that he is mixed up about the law and that he doesn't realize the seriousness of his drawing erroneous conclusions.

I'd like to remind him that a "little knowledge is a dangerous thing" and that lawyers spend years in "training" to understand the intricacies of the law and how they apply to each individual's case which is generally uniquely different from every other.

If he does not retain a lawyer, I see no other recourse for you than to do it on your own.

Year in America will soon end for Ceylon nurse

SHE'S ALL SUNSHINE and smiles in yellow lace. Yasanthie (Ya-sont'-tee) De Silva, registered nurse from Ceylon who has spent the past year at Forest Hospital in the social therapy training program, shows administrative secretary Audrey Lehmann how to wind six yards of lace into a stunning sari. Women in Ceylon wear dresses or pants, but don saris for formal occasions.

by ELEANOR RIVES

Yasanthie De Silva is going home.

Yasanthie with the soft, smiling eyes; the flashing white teeth in the dark dimpled face; the quick little hug, the tinkling word of encouragement for anyone who needs it.

America loves Yasanthie — at least that cross-section of America that passes through Forest Hospital, a private psychiatric facility in Des Plaines. And Forest Hospital has been Yasanthie's world for the past year.

She is one of several persons from foreign countries who have come to Forest Hospital recently under the sponsorship of administrator Morris B. Squire. From Pakistan, from India, the Philippines, from Israel, France and now from Ceylon, they come to participate in the social therapist training program and to take back to their countries a working knowledge of all the different modalities, the newer approaches in psychiatric treatment methods.

WHEN SQUIRE travels abroad, he makes a point of visiting psychiatric facilities. It is not unusual for a foreign doctor or professor to ask him to sponsor a staff member in the training program at Forest. Forest provides transportation, tuition, room and board for the visiting student.

When Squire visited General Hospital in Colombo, Ceylon, Yasanthie had been a registered nurse there for 12 years, the last five in the psychiatric ward, a teaching center for the university. They were introduced, but no mention was made of the program.

"Three months later, my professor had completed arrangements with Mr. Squire," said Yasanthie. "He asked me, 'Do you like to go to America?' I say, 'Okay.' "

SO ON AUG. 31, 1975, with a year's leave and the blessings of Ceylon's Health Department, Yasanthie boarded the plane for the 34-hour, 14,000 mile trip, landing at O'Hare on Labor Day. At the hospital, a nurse took her to her living quarters in the house across the road.

"In Ceylon, when the professor asked me to conduct groups, I don't know anything, no?" she said. "Now I learn what group therapy really is and how to go about it."

In the weeks that followed, Yasanthie learned not only social therapy but a great deal more. She learned, for example, how to do housework.

"I was crying like everything," she said. "At home everybody has servants. Labor is so cheap. When I was a child, my only responsiblity was to close the window. I didn't even have to switch on the lights. Even now, when I go home, I won't be allowed to do any work."

SHE LEARNED also how it feels to be homesick and for three months covered up that feeling with a smile. She learned, too, to get along without rice, although she longed for it. "At home my staple food is rice," she said. "Rice and meat or fish. Now I can eat anything."

She learned for the first time what snow is like, but would rather watch it through the window than go out in it. "It is so exciting, so beautiful," she said. The pure-white landscape reminded her of the full-moon day of May when the people of Ceylon, predominantly Buddhists, go to the temple garbed completely in white.

Yasanthie, the seventh of eight children, lives in the family home a few yards from the Indian Ocean in Ceylon, or, as she prefers to call it, Sri Lanka. Summer weather prevails for most of the year with the temperature dipping to the 50s or 60s in December, the coldest month.

WHEN HER PARENTS died, her older brothers and sisters took their place as her elders. To show respect on special occasions, such as a wedding or New Year celebration, Yasanthie kneels and touches her forehead to their feet. Her younger sister, in turn does the same to her.

"In Ceylon, 85 per cent of the marriages take place only when the parents approve," she explained. "The parents look into all the details, make all the arrangements, and all marriage ceremonies take place in the presence of parents. And there is less divorce."

Yasanthie was surprised at the freedom American girls have. It amazes her that a girl can come home at midnight if she wishes. "In my country, it is a disgrace for any woman to be seen walking along the road alone after dark," she said. "She must be home before dark or let her parents know she will be late and then be escorted."

WOMEN SELDOM drink or smoke in Ceylon, and liquor is not considered necessary at a party. "We just eat and sing and dance and enjoy ourselves," she said.

Here there is more equality between the sexes and she likes that. She likes, too, the fact that young people can work to help put themselves through school or to earn spending money. In Ceylon, students are not allowed to work until their education is completed.

Regarding parent-child relationships here, Yasanthie solemnly observed, "It's sad in America that parents have no time to look after their children. There is much maternal and paternal deprivation because parents are working. Then when parents grow old, the children have no time to look after them. It's nobody's fault — it's the nature of this country."

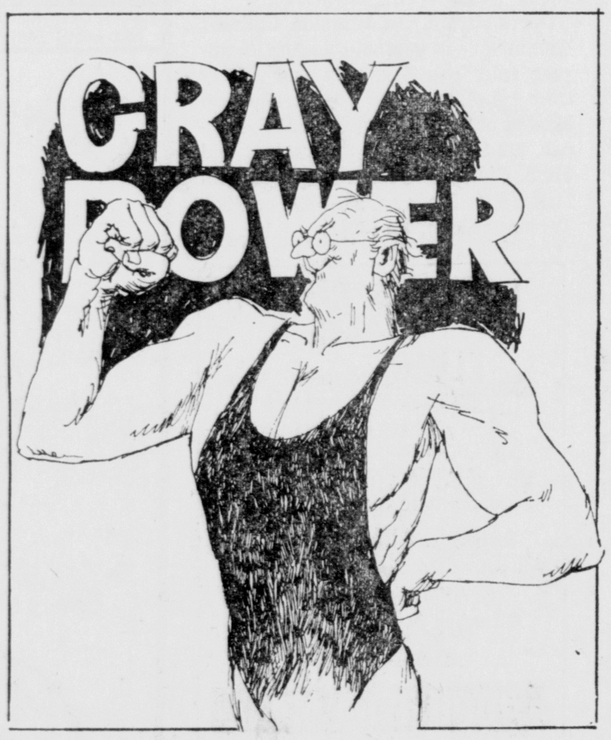
THOUGH YASANTHIE'S glimpse of America has been confined to the Chicago area, she will soon have a wider look. When she leaves late in September, she will visit New York City and Washington, D.C. Later she will take a train to San Francisco, stopping off for a view of Salt Lake City.

Then on to Hawaii for a visit, followed by a three-week stay in Australia, three days in Singapore and then home.

"I am the same woman who came from Ceylon, going back to Ceylon," she says as she flashes a smile. "I learned so many things, but I am still the same."

Gray power a political potential yet to be tapped

by STEVE BROWN
Herald political writer



Politicians are beginning to turn away from the youth voting bloc and look at the other end of the age spectrum for support, because senior citizens are going to the polls in increasing numbers.

While seniors are not yet a cohesive political pressure group, the 20 million plus members of this age group are seen as a potentially decisive force in elections.

The declining birthrate and increased longevity have combined to increase the number of senior citizens, but the current trend suggests that senior citizens vote in larger number than other age groups anyway.

David H. Grimsby of the Suburban Cook County Area Agency on Aging notes that while seniors make up about 15 to 20 per cent of the voting population, they contribute about 30 per cent of the total vote. The statistics show further that between 75 and 80 per cent of the senior citizen bloc go to the polls, a much higher percentage than any other age group.

THE NUMBERS are even more important in light of new projections which suggest that fewer than 70 million persons will cast ballots in the November presidential election, less than one-half the number of eligible voters.

A number of observers believe the senior citizen will become an important force.

Organizations like the Gray Panthers are beginning to provide a vocal staging area for senior citizen political efforts.

Political candidates, conscious of this voting bloc, are appointing special coordinators to get their name before senior citizen groups.

"They are obviously interested in candidates and their positions," said Robert Shultz, the senior citizen coordinator for Republican gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson.

SHULTZ SAID he is trying to recruit county coordinators for the Thompson campaign and make sure the organized senior citizen's groups get literature and information on his candidate.

"The seniors we have talked to also want to have input to candidates on their ideas," Shultz added.

Reader's knowledge of sugar inaccurate

I am trying to cut down on my sugar intake and in general change my diet to a more balanced and healthful one. I'm confused by the difference between sucrose and dextrose sugars. I know the food value of refined sugar to be nil, but is this only true for sugars from cane, beet and maple?

How about sugar present in dates and other fruits, especially dried ones? Trying to substitute fruit protein for meat protein would not be easy without taking some amounts of dextrose sugar unless this is metabolized as something else.

Your intention is laudable, but if you will forgive me your lack of knowledge is fantastic. You do need help to meet your goals. Your letter contains many incorrect statements.

Sucrose is a double sugar, meaning it is a combination of glucose and fructose — two single sugars. Dextrose is just another name for glucose. Sucrose is ordinary table sugar.

All refined sugars are very high in food value. They contain lots of calories. The problem is what they lack. In the refining process, vitamins, minerals and bulk are eliminated. This is true whether the sugar comes from beets, cane, or other sources.

Your digestive tract breaks down sucrose into glucose and fructose so it can be absorbed. Otherwise you would never get any of it into your blood. The fructose is eventually changed to glucose for metabolism to yield energy.

The only other important single sugar is galactose. It is combined with glucose to form lactose — milk sugar. So, galactose is found only in milk. It, too, is converted to glucose eventually to be metabolized.

The sugars in fruits or in corn syrup are all either glucose, fructose or combinations of these into double sugars. The only advantage from the nutrition point of view is that the fruits also give you important vitamins and minerals for your diet plus some bulk from fruit fiber. The amount of sugar in these is handled exactly the same as your body processes table sugar. Even the starch found in a potato or corn is broken down by digestion to glucose and handled the same way.

I AM SENDING you The Health Letter number 3-8, Sugar and Starch: Carbohydrates, to give you a better idea of what carbohydrates are and how your body handles them. Did you know that your body can convert some proteins to glucose (dextrose)? Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Carbohydrates are important to good health. The foods such as fruits and vegetables and cereals contain many of the important vitamins and minerals you need for a balanced diet. Even the concentrated calorie foods such as the starches and sweets are important sources of energy and often make it possible to provide enough calories in the diet without resorting to eating excess amounts of fats.

I must point out that fruit contains very little protein, not enough for a decent diet. This lack of protein in fruit is why certain fad diets that are mostly fruit and lacking in good protein sources are so dangerous to your health. You must rely on something besides fruit to provide needed protein in your diet or you will have serious problems.

Eggs for hard-cooking need one week in frig

Dear Dorothy: We've been having a running argument about how to hard-cook eggs so they peel easily every time. We've even had a chef involved (brother-in-law of one of the crowd) who says salt in the water is all that's necessary. Let's hear your view. And how about fresh eggs in this process? — Mildred Winterhalter

The moment you say "fresh" egg I say no one has any way to peel a hard-cooked one satisfactorily. My experiments with eggs have run the full range. If you buy eggs for hard-cooking, let them sit in the refrigerator for a week first. Then make a pin hole in the large end of each egg, put them in a pan with enough water to come at least one inch above the eggs. Bring rapidly to boil. Take off heat and let stand in the hot water, covered, for 15 minutes. For extra large eggs, 20 minutes is better. Then pour off this water and cool immediately under cold running water. As the cooling takes place, crack the shell gently and start at the round end, holding the egg under the running water. This way they peel perfectly and there is never any dark ring around the yolks.

Dear Dorothy: You say cling-type plastic is a no-no for silver or wood. Why? I've been wrapping silver in plastic wrap. It seems to do no harm and does delay tarnishing. — C. Smith

You've been lucky. Silversmiths say a fair amount of their business comes from silver that has been wrapped in plastic. Heat and pressure have caused the plastic to stick to the silver. You must have an ideal temperature/humidity storage place.

Ann Grassly– Paul Schubert

For sentimental reasons Ann Grassly and Paul Schubert were married in the Evangelical Lutheran Church of St. Luke in Chicago, where Paul spent his grade school years and attended services until moving to Palatine in 1969.

Both graduates of Fremd High, the bride in '73 and the groom in '72, Ann is the daughter of Mrs. Julie Grassly, Palatine, and Herbert Grassly, Lake Bluff, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Mary Ellen Safian, formerly of Palatine and now of Buffalo Grove.

They were married Aug. 14 in a 3:30 p.m. double ring and candlelight service with Ann wearing a candlelight jersey gown. Her flowers were stephanotis with pink and white roses, baby's breath and gardenias.

LUANNE PESHKA, Niles, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Karen, Donna Boeckh, Palatine, and Sharon Cioffi, Des Plaines. All wore dusty rose halter gowns with matching jackets, and carried lilies, carnations and roses in pink, white and burgundy with baby's breath.

Richard Bartsch Jr., Palatine, was best man, and ushers were the groom's brother, Dan, and Dan Wall, Palatine, and Jerry Begale, a former Palatine resident now residing in San Francisco.

A reception for 250 guests was held at the Como Inn in Chicago.

The newlyweds, who postponed their honeymoon until winter, are residing in Des Plaines. Ann is employed by First Federal Savings and Loan, Park Ridge, and Paul is with Scandinavian Design, Woodfield, and also continuing his education at Harper College.

How about sugar present in dates and other fruits, especially dried ones? Trying to substitute fruit protein for meat protein would not be easy without taking some amounts of dextrose sugar unless this is metabolized as something else.

Your intention is laudable, but if you will forgive me your lack of knowledge is fantastic. You do need help to meet your goals. Your letter contains many incorrect statements.

Sucrose is a double sugar, meaning it is a combination of glucose and fructose — two single sugars. Dextrose is just another name for glucose. Sucrose is ordinary table sugar.

All refined sugars are very high in food value. They contain lots of calories. The problem is what they lack. In the refining process, vitamins, minerals and bulk are eliminated. This is true whether the sugar comes from beets, cane, or other sources.

Your digestive tract breaks down sucrose into glucose and fructose so it can be absorbed. Otherwise you would never get any of it into your blood. The fructose is eventually changed to glucose for metabolism to yield energy.

The only other important single sugar is galactose. It is combined with glucose to form lactose — milk sugar. So, galactose is found only in milk. It, too, is converted to glucose eventually to be metabolized.

The sugars in fruits or in corn syrup are all either glucose, fructose or combinations of these into double sugars. The only advantage from the nutrition point of view is that the fruits also give you important vitamins and minerals for your diet plus some bulk from fruit fiber. The amount of sugar in these is handled exactly the same as your body processes table sugar. Even the starch found in a potato or corn is broken down by digestion to glucose and handled the same way.

I AM SENDING you The Health Letter number 3-8, Sugar and Starch: Carbohydrates, to give you a better idea of what carbohydrates are and how your body handles them. Did you know that your body can convert some proteins to glucose (dextrose)? Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Carbohydrates are important to good health. The foods such as fruits and vegetables and cereals contain many of the important vitamins and minerals you need for a balanced diet. Even the concentrated calorie foods such as the starches and sweets are important sources of energy and often make it possible to provide enough calories in the diet without resorting to eating excess amounts of fats.

I must point out that fruit contains very little protein, not enough for a decent diet. This lack of protein in fruit is why certain fad diets that are mostly fruit and lacking in good protein sources are so dangerous to your health. You must rely on something besides fruit to provide needed protein in your diet or you will have serious problems.

Eggs for hard-cooking need one week in frig

Dear Dorothy: We've been having a running argument about how to hard-cook eggs so they peel easily every time. We've even had a chef involved (brother-in-law of one of the crowd) who says salt in the water is all that's necessary. Let's hear your view. And how about fresh eggs in this process? — Mildred Winterhalter

The moment you say "fresh" egg I say no one has any way to peel a hard-cooked one satisfactorily. My experiments with eggs have run the full range. If you buy eggs for hard-cooking, let them sit in the refrigerator for a week first. Then make a pin hole in the large end of each egg, put them in a pan with enough water to come at least one inch above the eggs. Bring rapidly to boil. Take off heat and let stand in the hot water, covered, for 15 minutes. For extra large eggs, 20 minutes is better. Then pour off this water and cool immediately under cold running water. As the cooling takes place, crack the shell gently and start at the round end, holding the egg under the running water. This way they peel perfectly and there is never any dark ring around the yolks.

Dear Dorothy: You say cling-type plastic is a no-no for silver or wood. Why? I've been wrapping silver in plastic wrap. It seems to do no harm and does delay tarnishing. — C. Smith

You've been lucky. Silversmiths say a fair amount of their business comes from silver that has been wrapped in plastic. Heat and pressure have caused the plastic to stick to the silver. You must have an ideal temperature/humidity storage place.

Dear Dorothy: My interest was aroused by the reader who stored coffee in ice cube trays for iced coffee. I use a little coffee in rinse water to take lint off black socks — Peggy Went

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schubert

Ann Grassly– Paul Schubert

For sentimental reasons Ann Grassly and Paul Schubert were married in the Evangelical Lutheran Church of St. Luke in Chicago, where Paul spent his grade school years and attended services until moving to Palatine in 1969.

Both graduates of Fremd High, the bride in '73 and the groom in '72, Ann is the daughter of Mrs. Julie Grassly, Palatine, and Herbert Grassly, Lake Bluff, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Mary Ellen Safian, formerly of Palatine and now of Buffalo Grove.

They were married Aug. 14 in a 3:30 p.m. double ring and candlelight service with Ann wearing a candlelight jersey gown. Her flowers were stephanotis with pink and white roses, baby's breath and gardenias.

LUANNE PESHKA, Niles, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Karen, Donna Boeckh, Palatine, and Sharon Cioffi, Des Plaines. All wore dusty rose halter gowns with matching jackets, and carried lilies, carnations and roses in pink, white and burgundy with baby's breath.

Richard Bartsch Jr., Palatine, was best man, and ushers were the groom's brother, Dan, and Dan Wall, Palatine, and Jerry Begale, a former Palatine resident now residing in San Francisco.

A reception for 250 guests was held at the Como Inn in Chicago.

The newlyweds, who postponed their honeymoon until winter, are residing in Des Plaines. Ann is employed by First Federal Savings and Loan, Park Ridge, and Paul is with Scandinavian Design, Woodfield, and also continuing his education at Harper College.

Ask Andy

36 species of animals now extinct

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Mick Brockway, 11, of Washington, Ill., for his question:

HOW MANY ANIMALS ARE EXTINCT AND HOW MANY ARE ENDANGERED?

An extinct animal is one that lived on the earth but has died out. Dinosaurs are extinct and so are passenger pigeons. The dinosaurs, and other animals that roamed the earth during prehistoric times, became extinct as part of a natural process in a changing world. The passenger pigeon, however, did not die out because of any such natural process. Its extinction is due to man's ignorance, greed and waste.

At one time the passenger pigeon was among the most numerous birds in the world. When their flocks flew overhead they would darken the sky for hours. During their nesting season they were slaughtered by the thousands and used for food. Those that people couldn't eat were used as hog food or simply left to rot. They were hunted so relentlessly that by the end of the 19th century the great flocks were gone. The last passenger pigeon seen in the wild was in 1899, and the sole surviving member of the species died in a zoo in 1914.

Until about 1600 records regarding animals were rather sketchy. But about this time men began to take more interest in the natural world. They started to describe the creatures of earth and to attempt to classify them. These early descriptions give today's scientists a somewhat accurate picture of the animal life during the last 400 years.

Records show that, since 1600, 36 species of animals have become extinct. Ninety-four separate species of birds are also no longer with us. This is tragic, and of course nothing can be done ubout the animals that are gone. The endangered species list, however, represents animals that can be saved, and many efforts are being made in this regard.

In 1968 there were 78 species of animals on the endangered species list for the United States. By 1971 that figure had grown to 101, and this year the National Wildlife Federation reports 126 endangered species officially recognized. The list includes such animals as the American alligator, the eastern timber wolf, the Utah prairie dog, the eastern cougar, the California condor and the California brown pelican.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Stephanie Kyle, 14, of New Holland, Pa., for her question:

WHAT IS CAROB?

Should you visit the beautiful island of Cyprus in the Mediterreanean Sea you would see lots of carob trees. They grow on the lower slopes of the mountains and are an important farm product. At first glance you might think they are apple trees. Instead of a fruit, though, there are thousands of 3-to 6-inch pods which resemble brown ish pea pods. Inside each little case is a sticky pulp which is processed in several ways for human consumption and animal feed.

Although you might see carob trees in the areas the United States where there is year-round warmth, most of the carob we buy comes from the Mediterranean regions. Carob pow der, carob flour and carob meal are increaingly popular among those who enjoy its chocolaty flavor. It is nutritious and easily digested. Many cooks use it in baked goods such as bread, brownies, cookies and cakes. There is an instantized carob available which makes a delicious milk drink.

Reading ability bungles set

Mike Lawrence points out that the suit-preference signal is not a cure-all for all defensive problems and that in some hands its abuse can lead to all sorts of trouble.

Thus, in general, when you are following suit at the first trick and your partner is going to hold the trick, a high card means come-on, while a low card asks your partner to shift to another suit.

We won't go into the merits or demerits of West's overcall with one overcall, but he did not overcall with one spade and decided to open the ace.

East followed with the deuce of the suit and West, who was one of those suit-preference-happy players, decided that his partner was asking for a club shift. It would be almost impossible to figure out an East hand that wanted a club shift, but West led one.

South took his ace, drew trumps, cashed the spade king, discarded one diamond on dummy's long club, another on the queen of spades and made an overtrick.

A sensible West would have played his ace of diamonds at trick two, East would follow with the jack. West would lead a second diamond and the defense would have taken the first four tricks.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

NATIONALLY KNOWN SPEED READING COURSE TO BE TAUGHT HERE IN ROLLING MEADOWS

Great Lakes Reading Lab will offer a 4-week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people in the northwest suburban area.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and effective program available in the United States. Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life. In just 4 weeks the average student should be reading 4-5 times faster. In a few months some students are reading 20-30 times faster attaining speeds that approach 6,000 words per minute. In rare instances speeds of up o 13,000 wpm have been documented.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the course with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For those who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour, orientation lectures have been scheduled. At these free lectures the course will be explained in complete detail, including classroom procedures, instruction methods, class schedule and a special 1 time only introductory tuition that is less than one-third the cost of similar courses. You must attend any of the meetings for information about the Rolling Meadows classes.

These orientations are open to the public, above age 14 (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent if possible).

If you have always wanted to be a speed reader but found the cost prohibitive or the course too time consuming . . . now you can. Just by attending 1 evening per week for 4 short weeks you can read 7 to 10 times faster, concentrate better and comprehend more.

If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's everchanging accelerating world then this course is an absolute necessity. These special one-hour lectures will be held at the following times and places:

ALL MEETINGS WILL BE HELD AT THE HOLIDAY INN RTS. 53 & 62 ROLLING MEADOWS

Mon., Sept. 13	Tues., Sept. 14	Wed., Sept. 15
6:30 p.m. & 8:30 p.m.	6:30 p.m. & 8:30 p.m.	6:30 p.m. & 8:30 p.m.

IF you are a businessman, student, housewife or executive, this course which took 5 years of intensive research to develop, is a must. You can read 7-10 times faster, comprehend more, concentrate better and remember longer. Students are offered an additional discount. This course can be taught to industry or civic groups at "Group Rates" upon request. Be sure to attend whichever free orientation fits best in your schedule.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

NATIONALLY KNOWN SPEED READING COURSE TO BE TAUGHT HERE IN ROLLING MEADOWS

Great Lakes Reading Lab will offer a 4-week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people in the northwest suburban area.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and effective program available in the United States. Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life. In just 4 weeks the average student should be reading 4-5 times faster. In a few months some students are reading 20-30 times faster attaining speeds that approach 6,000 words per minute. In rare instances speeds of up o 13,000 wpm have been documented.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the course with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For those who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour, orientation lectures have been scheduled. At these free lectures the course will be explained in complete detail, including classroom procedures, instruction methods, class schedule and a special 1 time only introductory tuition that is less than one-third the cost of similar courses. You must attend any of the meetings for information about the Rolling Meadows classes.

These orientations are open to the public, above age 14 (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent if possible).

If you have always wanted to be a speed reader but found the cost prohibitive or the course too time consuming . . . now you can. Just by attending 1 evening per week for 4 short weeks you can read 7 to 10 times faster, concentrate better and comprehend more.

If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's everchanging accelerating world then this course is an absolute necessity. These special one-hour lectures will be held at the following times and places:

ALL MEETINGS WILL BE HELD AT THE HOLIDAY INN
RTS. 53 & 62 ROLLING MEADOWS

Mon., Sept. 13	Tues., Sept. 14	Wed., Sept. 15
6:30 p.m. & 8:30 p.m.	6:30 p.m. & 8:30 p.m.	6:30 p.m. & 8:30 p.m.

IF you are a businessman, student, housewife or executive, this course which took 5 years of intensive research to develop, is a must. You can read 7-10 times faster, comprehend more, concentrate better and remember longer. Students are offered an additional discount. This course can be taught to industry or civic groups at "Group Rates" upon request. Be sure to attend whichever free orientation fits best in your schedule.

FIRST TIME AROUND. Mount Prospect's Larry Monroe got his first pitching start in the major leagues for the White Sox Tuesday, going two innings before being relieved because of manager Paul Richards' prearranged strategy. Below, the 20-year-old graduate of Forest View High School puts the tag on George Brett of the Kansas City Royals, who was trying to score on a ball hit back to Monroe. Above, with every muscle taut, Monroe delivers. (Photos by Dave Tonge)

'Strategy' catches Monroe by surprise

by BOB GALLAS

Big Larry Monroe, the pride of Mount Prospect, was supposed to have his day in the sun Tuesday, his first start as a major league pitcher.

But instead of the sun, Monroe barely got the moon, due to some cloak and dagger 'strategy' by White Sox manager Paul Richards in a game Chicago lost to Kansas City, 2-1.

Monroe, the 20-year-old righthander who prepped at Forest View High School, had gone but two frames in front of a large contingent of friends and family when he learned that he was an unwitting pawn in the game they call professional baseball. The 'strategy' was to start Monroe and let the Royals load their lineup with righthanded hitters, then bring in lefthander Terry Forster who'd have the lefty-righty percentages behind him.

The strategy worked well enough as Forster did a commendable job, giving up but a run in his 6-1/3 inning stint. But that run was all the Royals needed to do in the punchless Pale Hose.

All Monroe wishes is that somebody would have told him what was going on.

"I thought I was going as far as I could," he said dejectedly after the game and after he'd had time to let off steam. "I'm very discouraged. I was up and ready. On the last two hitters I faced I just started to reach my groove."

Although frustrated that his "start" had been ripped away so suddenly, after he'd given up a run in two innings of work, the youngster was philosophical about the whole thing.

"Sure, I'm disappointed, but you have to look at all sides of the matter. Kansas City is in a pennant race. If they'd left me in there and we lost 10-1, Oakland would say, 'Look, they (Sox) won two from Kansas City so now they're trying to give one away."

Perhaps Monroe's feelings would have been soothed if he'd heard the praise from his manager. Richards promised that Monroe will get another start, and hopefully more than two innings.

"He (Monroe) is a good prospect. It's just a matter of hi sgetting some experience and learning the hitters, learning how to control his sinker and when to get it in or out of the strike zone," Richards said. "His velocity is pretty damn good for a kid that young."

Richards explained his 'strategy.' "I didn't want to tell him (Monroe) about it because I didn't exactly know what would happen. My plan was to use three pitchers. but Forster was going so good, I didn't have to make the third move."

Two tainted runs did the Sox in, as Forster got the loss, his 11th against only two wins. The Royals scored in the first inning when George Brett tripled in Amos Otis. A throwing error by catcher Jim Essian allowed Hal McRae to score the decisive run off Forster in the fourth after the Sox had tied the score in the third when Alan Bannister doubled in Essian.

McRae led off the fourth with a double and moved to third on an infield hit by Al Cowens. Cowens stole second and when Essian's throw sailed into center field, McRae scored.

Andy Hassler, who's 5-4 with the Royals since coming to Kansas City this summer from the Angels, where he'd lost 18 in a row over two seasons, got the win by going the distance for Kansas City.

Forster ran out of gas with one out and a man on in the ninth and Clay Carroll came on, loading the bases before getting a double play to end the game and earn the save.

In his 6-1/3-inning stint Forster gave up but one run on six hits, striking out two in one of his best outings so far this season.

"I was getting ahead of the hitters which is what you have to do with Kansas City," said Forster. "If you get behind on the hitters, these guys can get ahead by 20 runs."

Forster said in light of his erratic 2-11 record, he feels he's been consistent this year. "I'm consistent for four or five innings, then my arm's been stiffening up and I can't throw the breaking ball."

Hawks outrun Prospect; Conant, Forest View win

The Hoffman Estates cross country team pushed Prospect from the ranks of the unbeaten with a 20-37 victory Tuesday, but at least one person refused to get excited about it.

"We hit tonight, but we may never run this well again," said Hoffman coach Jim Swift.. "We have to worry about every team that comes along."

Swift's Hawks were swift Hawks indeed, putting five runners in between Prospect winner Mark Smith and Smith's next teammate. Hoffman's Tim Jorgenson, in second, was just 21 seconds in front of his team's fifth man, Ken Krueger, who was sixth in the race. Kevin Rooney, John Partelow and Bill Joyce ran third through fifth.

"This was a real team effort tonight," said Swiit. "The kids were really looking forward to this meet because we lost to Prospect in the last meet last year and it cost us the Southy title. The kids have been waiting nine months for this meet."

Prospect's second runner, captain Matt Lawson, ran 15 seconds faster than he did against Schaumburg last Thursday, making Hoffman Estates' victory all the more impressive.

Smith, a junior, cut seven seconds off his fastest time on the Prospect course, finishing a full 23 seconds ahead of Jorgenson, in 14:05.

In other conference meets Tuesday, Conant whipped Schaumburg 21-38, and Forest View won its first league duel, 24-32 over Roling Meadows.

At Union Oil, the Conant Cougars moved their Mid-Suburban South record to 2-0 by packing Dan Cummings, Bill Baird and Brian Foss in front of Schaumburg's first man, sophomore Paul Stout.

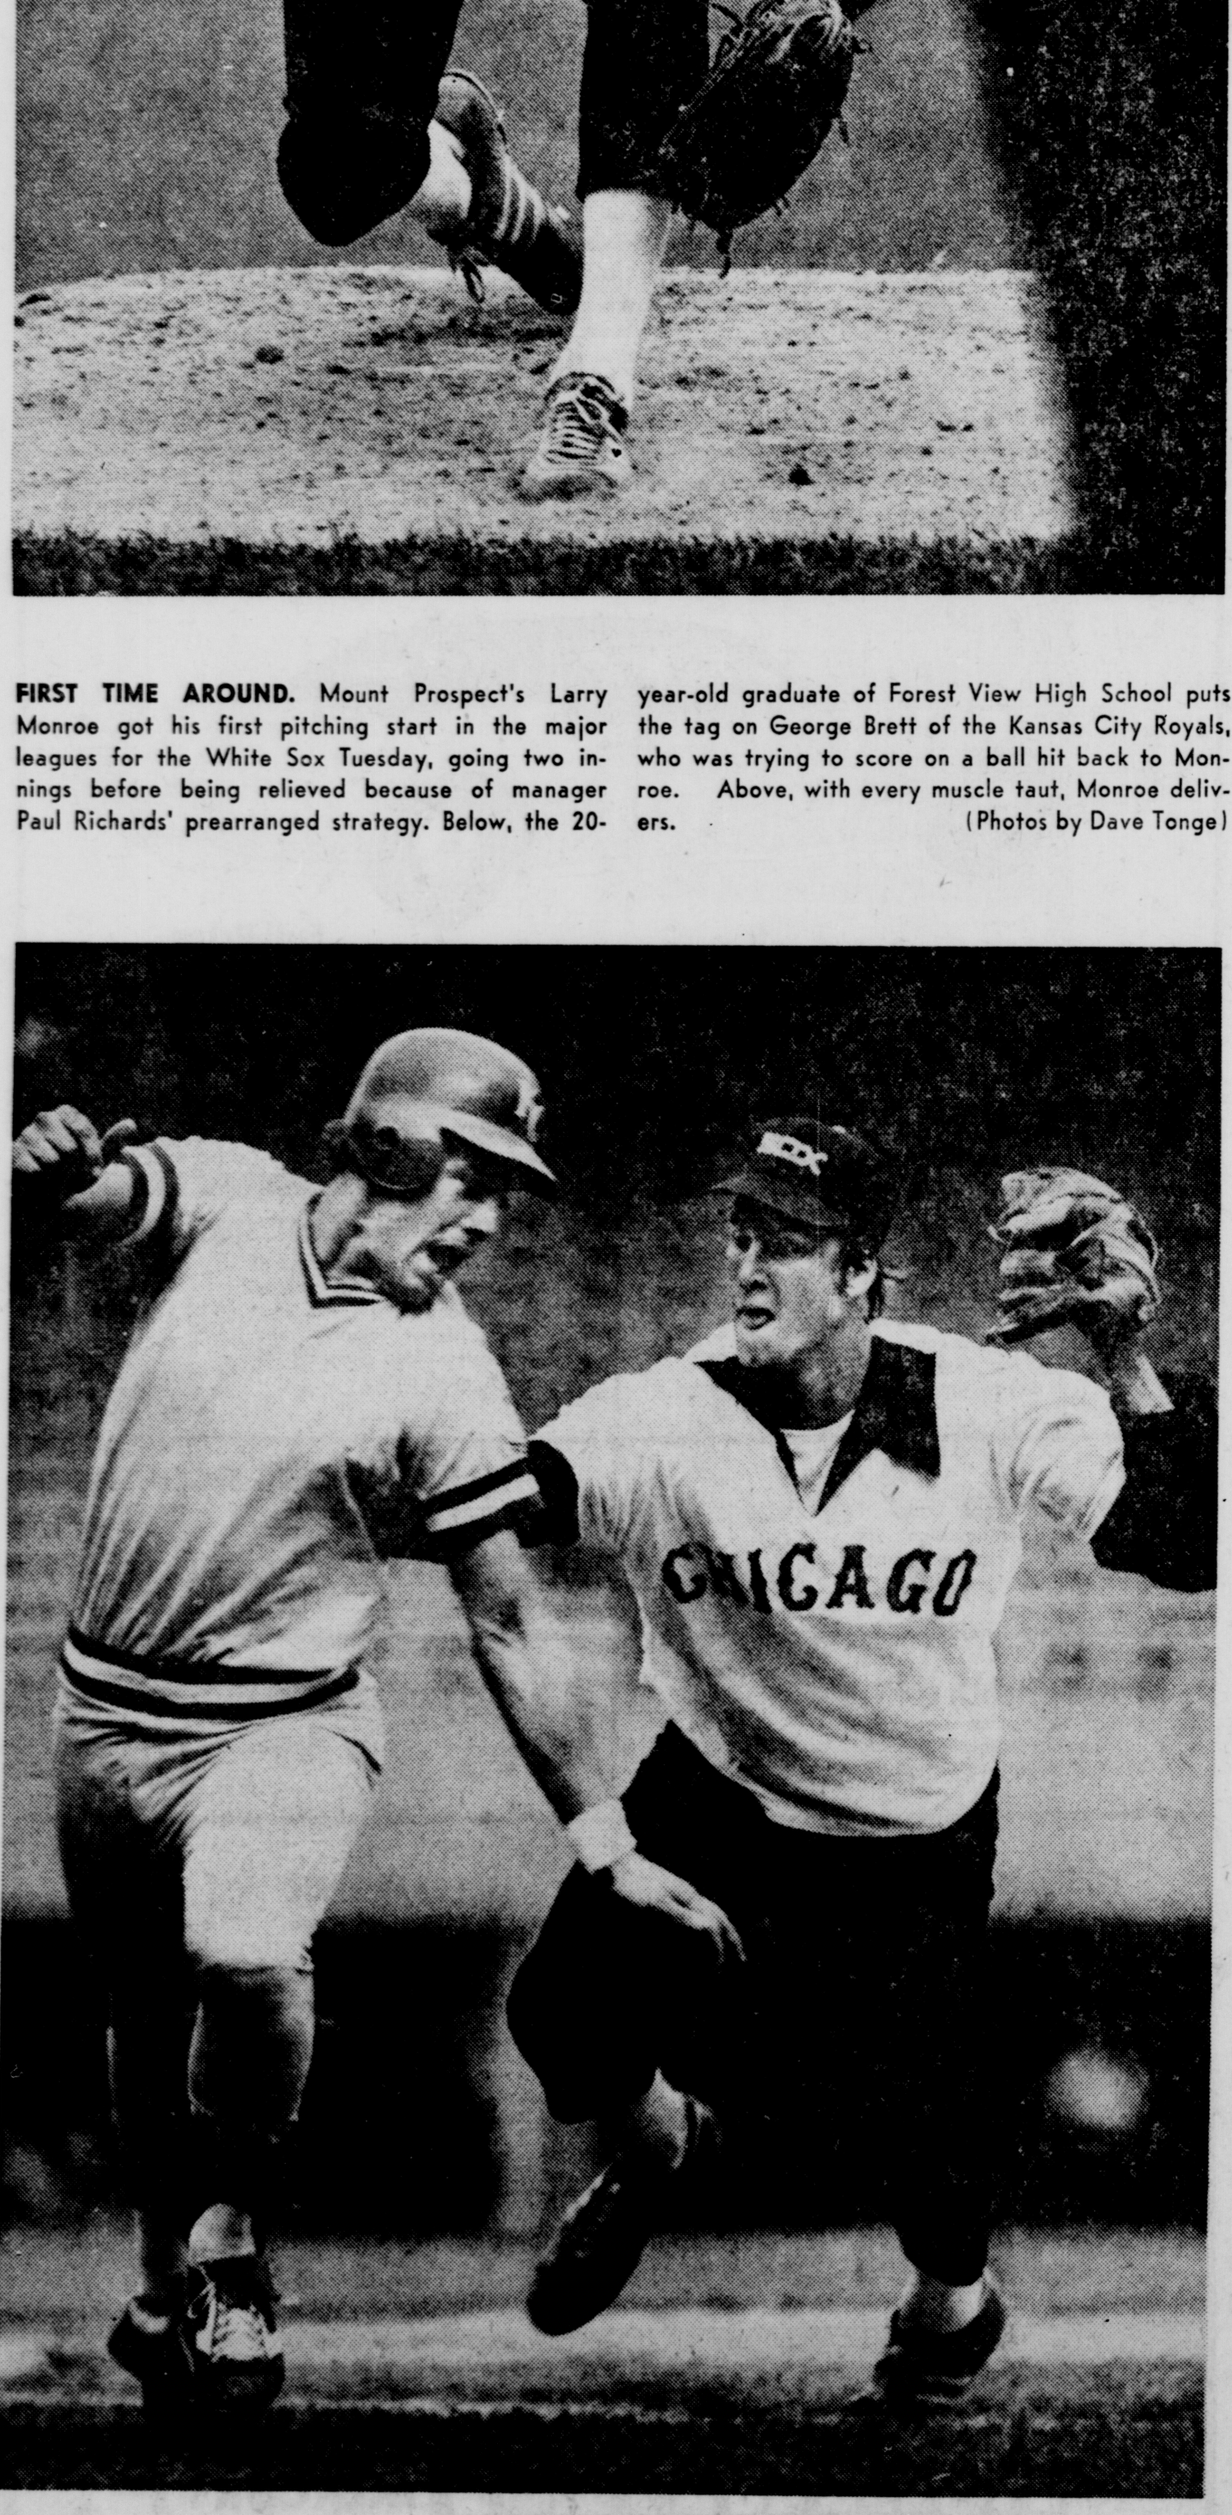
Cummings ran away with the race, finishing alone in 14:48. Baird and Foss were together, 30 seconds behind, and Stout was farther back in 15:31.

Cnnant's fourth and fifth men were Ben Applebeck (15:43) and Mark Ysmael (15:45).

Darryl Robinson of Forest View outdueled Rolling Meadows' Tom Choice and went on to win in 14:24 on the 2.75-mile course at Forest View. The Falcons won by putting six men in front of the Mustangs' fifth runner.

Forest View's second finisher was Bob Haas in third place, followed by Jim Yaccino (5th) and Dave Kloster (6th). Meadows' Fred Kocian was fourth.

Jeff Kloster and Jim Hilleger of Forest View came home ninth and 10th over-all.



Smart foils Arlington bid; Harper sweeps Waubonsee

Buffalo Grove sophomore Lisa Smart knocked off Leslie Grabitz 6-3, 6-2 but the rest of Arlington's squad took care of the Bison as the Cardinals remained unbeaten in Mid-Suburban League girls' tennis with a 6-1 win.

Carrie Sears and Janet Haberkorn picked up singles wins for the Cardinals while the Arlington doubles teams of Kris Richey and Nancy Weber, Lisa Pugsley and Beth Klawitter and Kathie Golden and Beth DiCola scored straight set wins.

Wheeling turned the tables on Conant 7-0 to raise their record to 1-2.

Carin Bychowski, at No. 1 singles, and the doubles teams of Barb Wright and Dotti Malin, Cary Larson and Bonnie Halvorsen and Sheila Foran and Kim Cofer all posted straight set wins for the Wildcats.

Fremd clinched a win over Hersey, 4-2, with the No. 2 singles match still to be decided.

Tracy Vraney at No. 3 singles, Kris Heintz and Colleen Cannon at No. 1 doubles, Lorii Teutsch and Mary Harring at No. 2 doubles and Donelda Danz and Pam Moyer at No. 4 won the necessary points for the Vikings.

Sheri Kostelny and Marilyn Jacobs picked up a point for Hersey at No. 3 doubles.

Forest View bested Schaumburg 6-1 as newcomer Cindy Sarna took a straight set win at No. 1 singles.

"Cindy has only been playing tennis for 14 months," said Forest View coach Jo Ann Travis. "She's a junior this year but she has picture strokes and she's improved immensely."

Debby Duncan blanked Cindy McDole at No. 2 singles while Schaumburg's Diane Kretz took the Saxons' only point with a 6-4, 6-1 win at No. 3 singles.

Barb Gallo, Kris Krueger, Jenny Jimenez and Cindy Keagle, Carol Johnson and Candie Kastning and Dawn Wiebe and Cathy Heile all won points for Rolling Meadows as the Mustangs topped Elk Grove 5-2.

Prospect got a 6-0, 6-0 whitewash from Jean Rezny at No. 2 singles and from Jeannine Hahn and Lisa Young at No. 1 doubles as the Knights handed Hoffman Estates a 5-2 defeat.

Harper continued to roll with a 9-0 shutout of Waubonsee.

The young Hawks were forced to three sets only once as they tuned up for matches with North Central today and Northwestern University Thursday.

It was the second straight 9-0 win for Martha Bolt's Hawks.

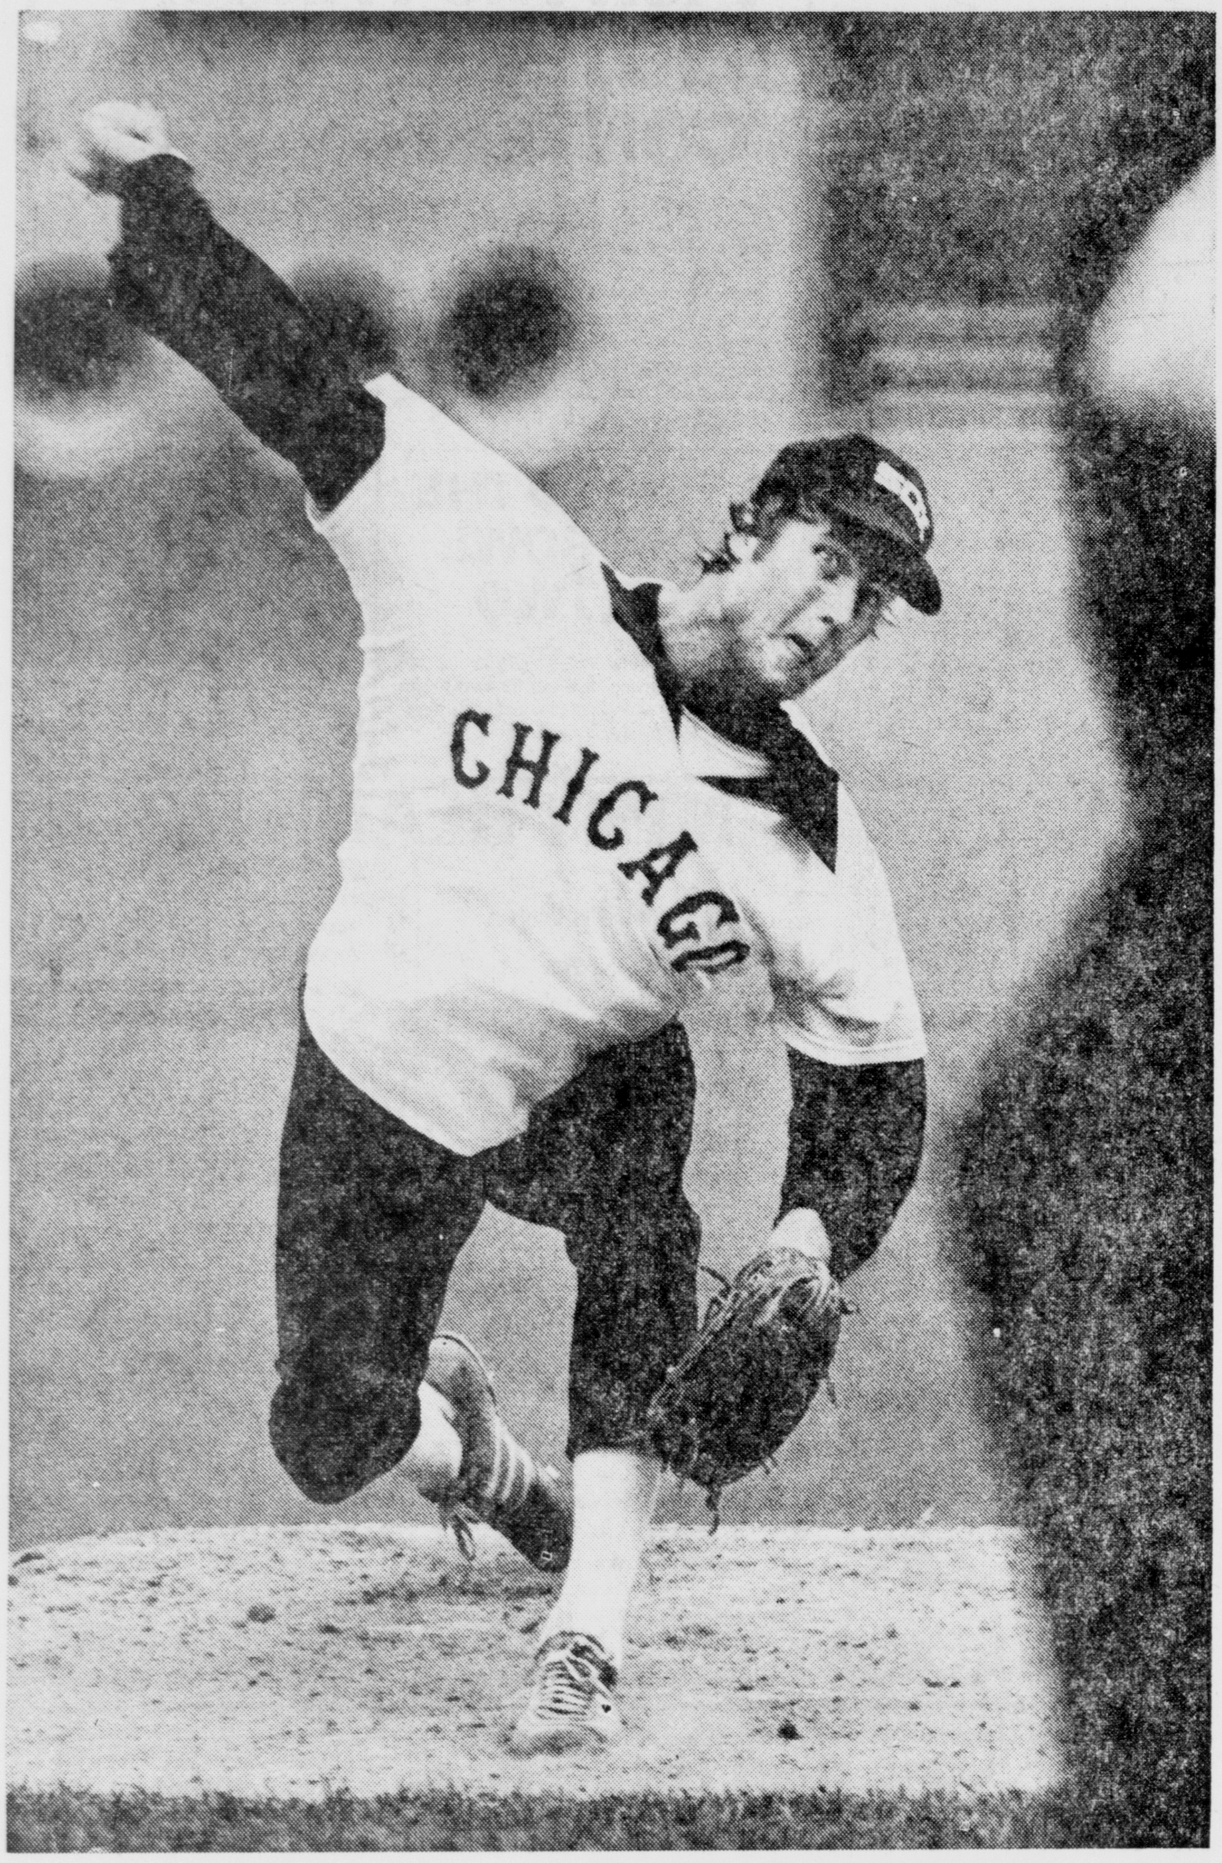
Breitbeil to start

Steve Breitbeil, sophomore from Rolling Meadows, will start at quarterback Saturday for Northwestern University against North Carolina.

Breitbeil, a 6-foot-1, 177-pounder, replaces Randy Dean, who was hospitalized Tuesday with pneumonia. Dean completed 12 of 21 passes for 231 yards and three touchdowns in the season opener at Purdue.

Breitbeil has never played in a varsity game but has been running No. 2 behind Dean. He completed 12 passes for 135 yards in a limited junior-varsity schedule last fall.

Northwestern, a 31-19 loser at Purdue, hits the road again this weekend, facing unbeaten North Carolina in Chapel Hill. The Tar Heels whipped Miami of Ohio 14-10 and Florida 24-21.



FIRST TIME AROUND. Mount Prospect's Larry Monroe got his first pitching start in the major leagues for the White Sox Tuesday, going two innings before being relieved because of manager Paul Richards' prearranged strategy. 'Strategy' catches Monroe by surprise

by BOB GALLAS

Big Larry Monroe, the pride of Mount Prospect, was supposed to have his day in the sun Tuesday, his first start as a major league pitcher.

But instead of the sun, Monroe barely got the moon, due to some cloak and dagger 'strategy' by White Sox manager Paul Richards in a game Chicago lost to Kansas City, 2-1.

Monroe, the 20-year-old righthander who prepped at Forest View High School, had gone but two frames in front of a large contingent of friends and family when he learned that he was an unwitting pawn in the game they call professional baseball. The 'strategy' was to start Monroe and let the Royals load their lineup with righthanded hitters, then bring in lefthander Terry Forster who'd have the lefty-righty percentages behind him.

The strategy worked well enough as Forster did a commendable job, giving up but a run in his 6-1/3 inning stint. But that run was all the Royals needed to do in the punchless Pale Hose.

All Monroe wishes is that somebody would have told him what was going on.

"I thought I was going as far as I could," he said dejectedly after the game and after he'd had time to let off steam. "I'm very discouraged. I was up and ready. On the last two hitters I faced I just started to reach my groove."

Although frustrated that his "start" had been ripped away so suddenly, after he'd given up a run in two innings of work, the youngster was philosophical about the whole thing.

"Sure, I'm disappointed, but you have to look at all sides of the matter. Kansas City is in a pennant race. If they'd left me in there and we lost 10-1, Oakland would say, 'Look, they (Sox) won two from Kansas City so now they're trying to give one away."

Perhaps Monroe's feelings would have been soothed if he'd heard the praise from his manager. Richards promised that Monroe will get another start, and hopefully more than two innings.

"He (Monroe) is a good prospect. It's just a matter of hi sgetting some experience and learning the hitters, learning how to control his sinker and when to get it in or out of the strike zone," Richards said. "His velocity is pretty damn good for a kid that young."

Richards explained his 'strategy.' "I didn't want to tell him (Monroe) about it because I didn't exactly know what would happen. My plan was to use three pitchers, but Forster was going so good, I didn't have to make the third move."

Two tainted runs did the Sox in, as Forster got the loss, his 11th against only two wins. The Royals scored in the first inning when George Brett tripled in Amos Otis. A throwing error by catcher Jim Essian allowed Hal McRae to score the decisive run off Forster in the fourth after the Sox had tied the score in the third when Alan Bannister doubled in Essian.

McRae led off the fourth with a double and moved to third on an infield hit by Al Cowens. Cowens stole second and when Essian's throw sailed into center field, McRae scored.

Andy Hassler, who's 5-4 with the Royals since coming to Kansas City this summer from the Angels, where he'd lost 18 in a row over two seasons, got the win by going the distance for Kansas City.

Forster ran out of gas with one out and a man on in the ninth and Clay Carroll came on, loading the bases before getting a double play to end the game and earn the save.

Royals, Phils gain; A's get vet Fairly

The Oakland A's missed yet another chance to gain ground with division leading Kansas City in the American League East as the A's split a twinbill with Minnesota Tuesday while the Royals topped the White Sox, 3-2.

Oakland lost a half game to Kansas City and an even more important full game in the loss column, and now trail the Royals by 4½ games. Vida Blue, 15-12, picked up the win in the first game, a 4-2 A's victory. In the nightcap, Dan Ford singled home Craig Kusick in the ninth inning to give the Twins a 4-3 win.

The A's made another move to strengthen their playoff chances Tuesday by acquiring veteran Ron Fairly from the St. Louis Cardinals. Fairly has hit .264 as a pinch hitter this season.

In the only other race left in the majors, the Phillies gained a full game on the Pirates to increase their lead in the National League East to six.

The Phillies topped Montreal 3-2 while the Pirates lost a 4-3 decision to New York. The Pirates open a crucial series at Philadelphia tonight.

Buckeyes top first UPI coaches' poll

NEW YORK — Ohio State, without the slam-bam glamor of Archie Griffin, held a slim six-point lead over second ranked Michigan Tuesday in the college football's first weekly ratings by the UPI Board of Coaches.

The Buckeyes' 49-21 pummelling of Michigan State Saturday earned Ohio State 16 first place votes and 349 points in the weekly balloting by the United Press International's Board of Coaches. Michigan was named the top team by 17 coaches as it gained 343 points.

UCLA made it to third after its upset of highly rated Arizona State as the Bruins received 254 points, while Tony Dorsett's manhandling of Notre Dame in a 31-10 rout propelled Pittsburgh into fourth with 246 points. Pitt received four first place votes while UCLA had one top ballot.

Oklahoma was the only other team to receive a first place vote as the Sooners rode a 24-3 victory over Vanderbilt to fifth place. Missouri gained the No. 6 ranking after Curtis Brown led the Tigers to a 46-25 romp over Southern California.

Penn State was rated seventh, Nebraska, held to a 6-6 tie by Louisiana State, was eighth, Georgia ninth and Texas A&M 10th.

Maryland headed the second 10, followed by Arkansas, Alabama, LSU and Boston College in the 11th through 15th ratings. Texas Tech, Kansas, North Carolina tied for 16th, Southern California was 19th and Oklahoma State 20th.

State-run grid gambling pays off

DOVER, Del. — The nation's first state-run football gambling operation returned up to $360.50 for a $1 bet on opening games of the National Football League season, state lottery officials reported Tuesday.

Lottery director Peter M. Simmons said the highest payoff was in "Touchdown," in which bettors picked point spreads on five games. The low $2 return was in the "Football Bonus" where players chose all the winning teams in a seven-game pool.

An "All-Bonus" game paid $14 for each $2 bet picking winners in all 14 NFL contests.

Simmons said first week sales were lower than anticipated with $62,280 bet on opening games. Simmons predicted once the public accepts the game, sale will average $200,000 each weekend.

Simmons said most of the initial bettors picked favorites, resulting in low payoffs in the lottery's pari-mutuel setup.

The NFL objects, however, and calls it a threat to the integrity of professional football. A Nov. 1 court hearing has been set to hear the league's request the game be halted. Until the hearings, the state can operate the game.

Former manager sues Goolagong

NEW YORK — A $34,800 suit charging breach of contract was filed Tuesday against tennis superstar Evonne Goolagong by her former manager.

Papers filed in Manhattan Supreme Court showed Mrs. Cawley was served with the suit Sept. 10 at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, where she was beaten in the title match of the U.S. Open by Christ Evert.

The suit was based on a claim by Vic Edwards, her former manager and coach, who said Mrs. Cawley discharged him by letter July 7, 1975 "without cause."

According to the suit, Mrs. Cawley had contracted with Edwards for his services until June 30, 1976, for which he claims he is owned $34,800 for the period from July 1975 to the end of the contract.

Scores up while favored golf teams post triumphs

Scores were generally on the high side as the Mid-Suburban golf season moved into full swing Tuesday.

A trio of pre-season MSL favorites all posted wins but totals forged by Prospect, Palatine and Buffalo Grove were less than impressive.

Fremd meanwhile established themselves as a genuine contender while knocking off Forest View and Elk Grove in one loop battle at Mt. Prospect country club. Led by Jim Moran, the Vikings notched a 153 to 164 for the Falcons and 186 for the Grens.

The Bison barely managed to escape with a pair of verdicts at Arlington Country Club, shooting 162 while Arlington and Conant tied just one stroke behind. Card Jeff Gutowsky was medalist at 35 but the Cougars edged his team out for a split on sixth scores, 206-210. Mike Marshall meanwhile headed up Buffalo Grove with a 38.

The defending champ Pirates outdistanced Hersey and Hoffman Estates, paced by veteran Mike Sievers' nifty 36, in a match at Hilldale. Palatine came in at 160.

At Golden Acres, the Knights soared to a 167 but felled Maine West (174) in a non-conference bout. A day earlier at Rob Roy, St. Viator had seven golfers break 40 while downing Loyola, 147-153.

The most impressive showing Tuesday was established by Harper in their opening contest. Headed up by frosh Steve Spielmann's torrid 75, the Hawks easily breezed past three other schools with a 308 composite.

'Cat shutout highlights area soccer schedule

Wheeling, Hersey, Arlington and Maine West all posted triumphs in area soccer action Tuesday.

The Wildcats shut out Buffalo Grove 2-0 while the Huskies were edging Prospect 2-1. Arlington stopped Rolling Meadows 3-1 and Maine West turned back Oak Park 3-2.

John Byckowski with an assist from Eric Bacher and Louis Restreto on a pass from Jeff Rech tallied the Wheeling goals. Keying the 'Cat defense were halfback Rainer Englemann and center fullback Ed Kotowski.

Hersey rallied on goals by Joe Velisek and John Link after Prospect had jumped into an early 1-0 lead on Santiago Bustamante's netbender. The Cards jumped ahead in their contest 2-0 on Walt Noffsinger's penalty kick and Jerry McCullough goal.

After Frank Munoz countered for the Mustangs in the second period, Paul Wei put it out of reach for the Redbirds. Arlington goalie Rick Bakas was credited with 11 saves while Meadows goalie Jim Rowland turned back 16 shots.

The Warriors won their game in overtime on a dazzling baseline bullet by Felix Garoz from 25-yards out. Larry McCarthy and John Bachmeier had scored earlier for Maine. Tom Schafft, West goal, had nine saves.

Cubs stop Cards, 6-3

ST. LOUIS — Jerry Morales and George Mitterwald drove in two runs each as the Cubs scored three times in the first and second innings Tuesday night to take a 6-3 win over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rick Reuschel picked up the win to raise his record to 13-10. He allowed eight hits, walking four and striking out four in pitching his sixth complete game.

Joe Wallis hit a one-out single to start the first inning rally and Bill Madlock and Morales followed with singles to score one run. Mitterwald then hit a two-out single to bring home Madlock and Morales.

The Cubs' three-run second inning rally was aided by two Cardinal errors. Rick Monday singled with one out and Wallis hit a sharp grounder to first. Gary Templeton threw wild to first with both runners advancing.

Madlock singled to score Monday and chased loser Lynn McGlothen. Morales' second hit scored Wallis and rightfielder Willis Crawford dropped Larry Bittner's fly for an error with Madlock scoring from second.

Royals, Phils gain; A's get vet Fairly

The Oakland A's missed yet another chance to gain ground with division leading Kansas City in the American League East as the A's split a twinbill with Minnesota Tuesday while the Royals topped the White Sox, 3-2.

Oakland lost a half game to Kansas City and an even more important full game in the loss column, and now trail the Royals by 4½ games. Vida Blue, 15-12, picked up the win in the first game, a 4-2 A's victory. In the nightcap, Dan Ford singled home Craig Kusick in the ninth inning to give the Twins a 4-3 win.

The A's made another move to strengthen their playoff chances Tuesday by acquiring veteran Ron Fairly from the St. Louis Cardinals. Fairly has hit .264 as a pinch hitter this season.

In the only other race left in the majors, the Phillies gained a full game on the Pirates to increase their lead in the National League East to six.

The Phillies topped Montreal 3-2 while the Pirates lost a 4-3 decision to New York. The Pirates open a crucial series at Philadelphia tonight.

Buckeyes top first UPI coaches' poll

NEW YORK — Ohio State, without the slam-bam glamor of Archie Griffin, held a slim six-point lead over second ranked Michigan Tuesday in the college football's first weekly ratings by the UPI Board of Coaches.

The Buckeyes' 49-21 pummelling of Michigan State Saturday earned Ohio State 16 first place votes and 349 points in the weekly balloting by the United Press International's Board of Coaches. Michigan was named the top team by 17 coaches as it gained 343 points.

UCLA made it to third after its upset of highly rated Arizona State as the Bruins received 254 points, while Tony Dorsett's manhandling of Notre Dame in a 31-10 rout propelled Pittsburgh into fourth with 246 points. Pitt received four first place votes while UCLA had one top ballot.

Oklahoma was the only other team to receive a first place vote as the Sooners rode a 24-3 victory over Vanderbilt to fifth place. Missouri gained the No. 6 ranking after Curtis Brown led the Tigers to a 46-25 romp over Southern California.

Penn State was rated seventh, Nebraska, held to a 6-6 tie by Louisiana State, was eighth, Georgia ninth and Texas A&M 10th.

Maryland headed the second 10, followed by Arkansas, Alabama, LSU and Boston College in the 11th through 15th ratings. Texas Tech, Kansas, North Carolina tied for 16th, Southern California was 19th and Oklahoma State 20th.

State-run grid gambling pays off

DOVER, Del. — The nation's first state-run football gambling operation returned up to $360.50 for a $1 bet on opening games of the National Football League season, state lottery officials reported Tuesday.

Lottery director Peter M. Simmons said the highest payoff was in "Touchdown," in which bettors picked point spreads on five games. The low $2 return was in the "Football Bonus" where players chose all the winning teams in a seven-game pool.

An "All-Bonus" game paid $14 for each $2 bet picking winners in all 14 NFL contests.

Simmons said first week sales were lower than anticipated with $62,280 bet on opening games. Simmons predicted once the public accepts the game, sale will average $200,000 each weekend.

Simmons said most of the initial bettors picked favorites, resulting in low payoffs in the lottery's pari-mutuel setup.

The NFL objects, however, and calls it a threat to the integrity of professional football. A Nov. 1 court hearing has been set to hear the league's request the game be halted. Until the hearings, the state can operate the game.

Former manager sues Goolagong

NEW YORK — A $34,800 suit charging breach of contract was filed Tuesday against tennis superstar Evonne Goolagong by her former manager.

Papers filed in Manhattan Supreme Court showed Mrs. Cawley was served with the suit Sept. 10 at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, where she was beaten in the title match of the U.S. Open by Christ Evert.

The suit was based on a claim by Vic Edwards, her former manager and coach, who said Mrs. Cawley discharged him by letter July 7, 1975 "without cause."

According to the suit, Mrs. Cawley had contracted with Edwards for his services until June 30, 1976, for which he claims he is owned $34,800 for the period from July 1975 to the end of the contract.

Scores up while favored golf teams post triumphs

Scores were generally on the high side as the Mid-Suburban golf season moved into full swing Tuesday.

A trio of pre-season MSL favorites all posted wins but totals forged by Prospect, Palatine and Buffalo Grove were less than impressive.

Fremd meanwhile established themselves as a genuine contender while knocking off Forest View and Elk Grove in one loop battle at Mt. Prospect country club. Led by Jim Moran, the Vikings notched a 153 to 164 for the Falcons and 186 for the Grens.

The Bison barely managed to escape with a pair of verdicts at Arlington Country Club, shooting 162 while Arlington and Conant tied just one stroke behind. Card Jeff Gutowsky was medalist at 35 but the Cougars edged his team out for a split on sixth scores, 206-210. Mike Marshall meanwhile headed up Buffalo Grove with a 38.

The defending champ Pirates outdistanced Hersey and Hoffman Estates, paced by veteran Mike Sievers' nifty 36, in a match at Hilldale. Palatine came in at 160.

At Golden Acres, the Knights soared to a 167 but felled Maine West (174) in a non-conference bout. A day earlier at Rob Roy, St. Viator had seven golfers break 40 while downing Loyola, 147-153.

The most impressive showing Tuesday was established by Harper in their opening contest. Headed up by frosh Steve Spielmann's torrid 75, the Hawks easily breezed past three other schools with a 308 composite.

'Cat shutout highlights area soccer schedule

Wheeling, Hersey, Arlington and Maine West all posted triumphs in area soccer action Tuesday.

The Wildcats shut out Buffalo Grove 2-0 while the Huskies were edging Prospect 2-1. Arlington stopped Rolling Meadows 3-1 and Maine West turned back Oak Park 3-2.

John Byckowski with an assist from Eric Bacher and Louis Restreto on a pass from Jeff Rech tallied the Wheeling goals. Keying the 'Cat defense were halfback Rainer Englemann and center fullback Ed Kotowski.

Hersey rallied on goals by Joe Velisek and John Link after Prospect had jumped into an early 1-0 lead on Santiago Bustamante's netbender. The Cards jumped ahead in their contest 2-0 on Walt Noffsinger's penalty kick and Jerry McCullough goal.

After Frank Munoz countered for the Mustangs in the second period, Paul Wei put it out of reach for the Redbirds. Arlington goalie Rick Bakas was credited with 11 saves while Meadows goalie Jim Rowland turned back 16 shots.

The Warriors won their game in overtime on a dazzling baseline bullet by Felix Garoz from 25-yards out. Larry McCarthy and John Bachmeier had scored earlier for Maine. Tom Schafft, West goal, had nine saves.

Cubs stop Cards, 6-3

ST. LOUIS — Jerry Morales and George Mitterwald drove in two runs each as the Cubs scored three times in the first and second innings Tuesday night to take a 6-3 win over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rick Reuschel picked up the win to raise his record to 13-10. He allowed eight hits, walking four and striking out four in pitching his sixth complete game.

Joe Wallis hit a one-out single to start the first inning rally and Bill Madlock and Morales followed with singles to score one run. Mitterwald then hit a two-out single to bring home Madlock and Morales.

The Cubs' three-run second inning rally was aided by two Cardinal errors. Rick Monday singled with one out and Wallis hit a sharp grounder to first. Gary Templeton threw wild to first with both runners advancing.

Madlock singled to score Monday and chased loser Lynn McGlothen. Morales' second hit scored Wallis and rightfielder Willis Crawford dropped Larry Bittner's fly for an error with Madlock scoring from second.

Buffalo Grove Tournament

Kent and Mazarka combined for a no-hitter, fanning seven as Wheeling rolled, 20-0 over Buffalo Grove. Kent and Ebert swatted a pair of homers and Miller had one. Scheuer doubled and tripled and Perez tripled. Wheeling came back with an 11-4 triumph over Lincolnwood as Kent tossed a six-hitter, striking out four. Buffalo Grove Tournament

Kent and Mazarka combined for a no-hitter, fanning seven as Wheeling rolled, 20-0 over Buffalo Grove. Kent and Ebert swatted a pair of homers and Miller had one. Scheuer doubled and tripled and Perez tripled. Wheeling came back with an 11-4 triumph over Lincolnwood as Kent tossed a six-hitter, striking out four. Petterson posts second sweep in women's play

Petterson Safety Service swept for the second straight week to lead the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League at Jeffrey Lanes with a 14-0 record.

Ziebart of Des Plaines climbed into second place with a 10-4 record as they took seven points from Tower Cleaners.

Petterson's sweep of Thunderbird Country Club was paced by Bobbie Kostelny's 208-190-181-579 and Winnie Lohse's 222-170-211-603. Thunderbird's best counter was a 168-160-207-535 series from substitute Elaine Nirva.

Ziebart got strong series from Peggy Harris (211-203-167-581) and Carol Anderson (217-171-187-575) in their sweep of Tower.

Jan Broderick (164-190-179-533) had the best night for Tower Cleaners.

Ten Pin Bowl and L-Tran Engineering tied with 9-5 records after the second week.

Ten Pin Bowl edged Striking Lanes 4-3 while L-Tran whipped Mason Shoes 7-0.

Betty Peterman (176-220-179-575) and Joan Plywack (159-200-196-555) paced Ten Pin Bowl. Marge Lindenberg chipped in with a 156-166-211-533.

Lu Schoenberger topped the 600 mark with a 210-191-202-603 for Striking Lanes. Judy Brumond (217-200-173-590) and Bette Brelle (191-178-212-581) also helped Striking Lanes.

L-Tran Engineering's Isobel Kosi fired a 187-209-166-562 to lead her team. Marlis Pleickhardt (184-164-188-536) and Lorrie Nichols (173-172-189-534) were nearly identical.

Vi Douglas also broke the 500 mark with a 188-149-180-517 series.

Mason Shoes got a balanced effort from Sandi Cirullo (173-157-153-483), Jackie Gard (145-168-151-464), Irma Faust (154-158-151-463), substitute Barb Salerno (156-168-130-454) and Rita Buge (166-145-141-452).

Standings — Petterson Safety Service 14-0, Ziebart of Des Plaines 10-4, L-Tran Engineering 9-5, Ten Pin Bowl 9-5, Striking Lanes 8-6, Thunderbird Country Club 4-10, Mason Shoes 2-12, Tower Cleaners 0-14.

Beverly Lanes became the quickest team to take advantage of the new scoring system instituted by the Paddock Classic Traveling League Saturday night.

The scratch-bowling quintet, highlighted by anchorman Bob Glaser's booming 644 series, captured 20 of a possible 25 points over Dick McFeely Pontiac in the inaugural evening of competition for the 1976 season at Sims Bowl in Des Plaines.

The revolutionary method of awarding points, which emphasizes the individual aspect of the sport as much as the team performance, provides for interesting head-to-head matches as well as measuring overall team strength.

Glaser swept his opponent for the night off a pair of 204 games sandwiched around ahefty 236. By winning each team game, Beverly Lanes also picked up three points apiece for a total of nine. A bonus point for winning overall series rounded out their profitable 20-point showing.

Gappa's Five looms as the first week's runnerup with a 16.5 to 8.5 triumph over Oost Produce. Gappa's was led by Mike Coleantono's whopping 648 series off an opening 246 and closing 236. Roger Huff chipped in with a 247 game and 621 series.

The evening's top series went to Jerry Belluzzi who fired a 224 opener and 247 down the stretch for a slick 650 as his Grand Spaulding Dodge team captured a 16-9 verdict over Weber Kettles.

After a slow three-point start in the opening game, three-time defending Paddock Classic Traveling League titlist Formco Metal Products blitzed Des Plaines Ace Hardware, 16-9.

Barry Stjernberg's blistering 648 series off consistent games of 214, 215 and 219 highlighted the action. Des Plaines' defense was built around Steve Fleming's 622 series that included games of 225 and 216.

CLASSIC STANDINGS

1. Beverly Lanes 20, 2. Gappa's Five 16.5, 3. (tie) Formco Metal Products and Grand Spaulding Dodge 16, 5. (tie) Des Plaines Ace Hardware and Weber Kettles 9, 7. Oost Produce 8.5, 8. Dick McFeely Pontiac 5.

Junior high teacher wins football contest

Donald Peters, a teacher at Chippewa Junior High School in Des Plaines, has captured the first round championship of the Herald's Pick the Winners contest.

Peters, of 119 N. Gibbons in Arlington Heights, who received a stadium blanket as his prize and became eligible for the grand prize trip to the Rose Bowl in January, picked all but three games correctly on the upset laden card but still had to edge three other contestants in the tiebreaker.

Tells the truth

Jack Farman, a 68 year old retiree, explained to a Philadelphia newspaper reporter why he had to bowl an ABC approved 300 game. "There's not much time left," was his explanation.

Believe it or not

Darwin and Virginia Ripley, bowling in an ABC/WIBC sanctioned mixed league in Pierre, S.D., each won the Most Improved Bowler awards for the 1975-76 season.

Petterson posts second sweep in women's play

Petterson Safety Service swept for the second straight week to lead the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League at Jeffrey Lanes with a 14-0 record.

Ziebart of Des Plaines climbed into second place with a 10-4 record as they took seven points from Tower Cleaners.

Petterson's sweep of Thunderbird Country Club was paced by Bobbie Kostelny's 208-190-181-579 and Winnie Lohse's 222-170-211-603. Thunderbird's best counter was a 168-160-207-535 series from substitute Elaine Nirva.

Ziebart got strong series from Peggy Harris (211-203-167-581) and Carol Anderson (217-171-187-575) in their sweep of Tower.

Jan Broderick (164-190-179-533) had the best night for Tower Cleaners.

Ten Pin Bowl and L-Tran Engineering tied with 9-5 records after the second week.

Ten Pin Bowl edged Striking Lanes 4-3 while L-Tran whipped Mason Shoes 7-0.

Betty Peterman (176-220-179-575) and Joan Plywack (159-200-196-555) paced Ten Pin Bowl. Marge Lindenberg chipped in with a 156-166-211-533.

Lu Schoenberger topped the 600 mark with a 210-191-202-603 for Striking Lanes. Judy Brumond (217-200-173-590) and Bette Brelle (191-178-212-581) also helped Striking Lanes.

L-Tran Engineering's Isobel Kosi fired a 187-209-166-562 to lead her team. Marlis Pleickhardt (184-164-188-536) and Lorrie Nichols (173-172-189-534) were nearly identical.

Vi Douglas also broke the 500 mark with a 188-149-180-517 series.

Mason Shoes got a balanced effort from Sandi Cirullo (173-157-153-483), Jackie Gard (145-168-151-464), Irma Faust (154-158-151-463), substitute Barb Salerno (156-168-130-454) and Rita Buge (166-145-141-452).

Standings — Petterson Safety Service 14-0, Ziebart of Des Plaines 10-4, L-Tran Engineering 9-5, Ten Pin Bowl 9-5, Striking Lanes 8-6, Thunderbird Country Club 4-10, Mason Shoes 2-12, Tower Cleaners 0-14.

Beverly Lanes became the quickest team to take advantage of the new scoring system instituted by the Paddock Classic Traveling League Saturday night.

The scratch-bowling quintet, highlighted by anchorman Bob Glaser's booming 644 series, captured 20 of a possible 25 points over Dick McFeely Pontiac in the inaugural evening of competition for the 1976 season at Sims Bowl in Des Plaines.

The revolutionary method of awarding points, which emphasizes the individual aspect of the sport as much as the team performance, provides for interesting head-to-head matches as well as measuring overall team strength.

Glaser swept his opponent for the night off a pair of 204 games sandwiched around ahefty 236. By winning each team game, Beverly Lanes also picked up three points apiece for a total of nine. A bonus point for winning overall series rounded out their profitable 20-point showing.

Gappa's Five looms as the first week's runnerup with a 16.5 to 8.5 triumph over Oost Produce. Gappa's was led by Mike Coleantono's whopping 648 series off an opening 246 and closing 236. Roger Huff chipped in with a 247 game and 621 series.

The evening's top series went to Jerry Belluzzi who fired a 224 opener and 247 down the stretch for a slick 650 as his Grand Spaulding Dodge team captured a 16-9 verdict over Weber Kettles.

After a slow three-point start in the opening game, three-time defending Paddock Classic Traveling League titlist Formco Metal Products blitzed Des Plaines Ace Hardware, 16-9.

Barry Stjernberg's blistering 648 series off consistent games of 214, 215 and 219 highlighted the action. Des Plaines' defense was built around Steve Fleming's 622 series that included games of 225 and 216.

CLASSIC STANDINGS

1. Beverly Lanes 20, 2. Gappa's Five 16.5, 3. (tie) Formco Metal Products and Grand Spaulding Dodge 16, 5. (tie) Des Plaines Ace Hardware and Weber Kettles 9, 7. Oost Produce 8.5, 8. Dick McFeely Pontiac 5.

Tells the truth

Jack Farman, a 68 year old retiree, explained to a Philadelphia newspaper reporter why he had to bowl an ABC approved 300 game. "There's not much time left," was his explanation.

Believe it or not

Darwin and Virginia Ripley, bowling in an ABC/WIBC sanctioned mixed league in Pierre, S.D., each won the Most Improved Bowler awards for the 1975-76 season.

Just dogs

by Dave Terrill

Hunting dogs require new diets

Feeding the hunting dog —

September and October signal the opening of the hunting season and a hunting dog's short, intense work period. Upland game, waterfowl shooting, rabbit and fox hunting run quickly through Indian Summer and early winter. Just as quickly, the seasons close, and the dogs are brought home for a well earned rest.

Hunting dogs require an average daily feeding of a complete and balanced commercial dog food to keep in good condition in the off-season. During the hunting season, however, cereal-based diets need something extra, that something extra is meat fortified with vitamins and minerals, according to Dr. Charles Banta, canine nutritionist at the ALPO Center for Advanced Pet Study.

"It makes sense," Dr. Banta says, "Field dogs and hounds cover long distances in the field during a day's hunt. And, although retrievers enjoy a rest between birds, they may swim several miles a day in icy waters bringing in ducks and geese. It is all hard work and the dogs should be prepared for it with a good summer conditioning program, coupled with well-planned diets for top performance."

Experienced hunters take themselves, and their dogs, out in the fields, along the hedgerows, to scout for game well before the hunting season. Hunters run their dogs into field condition and slowly switch dogs over to high protein and fat diets to get them in trim for the season.

Nutritionists at the ALPO Pet Center give as an example a hunting dog maintained throughout the off-season on a daily feeding of a cereal-based dog food.

The hunting dog, they say, should be switched onto a high energy diet by feeding one part fortified canned dog food to four parts dry meal for the first week.

During the second week, increase the diet to two parts canned dog food along with three parts dry meal. Complete the switch on the third week by feeding three parts canned dog food to one part dry meal. Use that feeding mixture throughout the hunting season.

Once into the hunting season, it is up to the hunter to watch his dog work, judge how he eats, watch for the right covering of fat over the rib cage and increase or decrease the diet accordingly for top condition.

Dalmatian specialty —

The Chicagoland Dalmatian Club holds its annual specialty show and obedience trial Saturday, in the 4-H Building at the DuPage County Fairgrounds, Wheaton.

Judging starts at 9 a.m., with the puppy sweepstakes and obedience classes first to start. There are 155 dogs and they are in for a total of 249 entries.

You are invited to attend. There is plenty of parking and there will be refreshments available. If you want more information, contact the show chairman, Robert Schalund, 312-629-5572.

Barks & Bays —

The answer to the question in the last column of what breed is known as the "Lion Dog" is the Pekingese. The breed was revered in China centuries ago as a sacred symbol of the protector of the faith, the Buddha Lion.

Splits and spares

David Sperry of Janesville, Wis. bowled a game in 1975-76 in which he left five 5-7 splits. He came back strong, however, by converting all five of the splits.

Just dogs

by Dave Terrill

Hunting dogs require new diets

Feeding the hunting dog —

September and October signal the opening of the hunting season and a hunting dog's short, intense work period. Upland game, waterfowl shooting, rabbit and fox hunting run quickly through Indian Summer and early winter. Just as quickly, the seasons close, and the dogs are brought home for a well earned rest.

Hunting dogs require an average daily feeding of a complete and balanced commercial dog food to keep in good condition in the off-season. During the hunting season, however, cereal-based diets need something extra, that something extra is meat fortified with vitamins and minerals, according to Dr. Charles Banta, canine nutritionist at the ALPO Center for Advanced Pet Study.

"It makes sense," Dr. Banta says, "Field dogs and hounds cover long distances in the field during a day's hunt. And, although retrievers enjoy a rest between birds, they may swim several miles a day in icy waters bringing in ducks and geese. It is all hard work and the dogs should be prepared for it with a good summer conditioning program, coupled with well-planned diets for top performance."

Experienced hunters take themselves, and their dogs, out in the fields, along the hedgerows, to scout for game well before the hunting season. Hunters run their dogs into field condition and slowly switch dogs over to high protein and fat diets to get them in trim for the season.

Nutritionists at the ALPO Pet Center give as an example a hunting dog maintained throughout the off-season on a daily feeding of a cereal-based dog food.

The hunting dog, they say, should be switched onto a high energy diet by feeding one part fortified canned dog food to four parts dry meal for the first week.

During the second week, increase the diet to two parts canned dog food along with three parts dry meal. Complete the switch on the third week by feeding three parts canned dog food to one part dry meal. Use that feeding mixture throughout the hunting season.

Once into the hunting season, it is up to the hunter to watch his dog work, judge how he eats, watch for the right covering of fat over the rib cage and increase or decrease the diet accordingly for top condition.

Dalmatian specialty —

The Chicagoland Dalmatian Club holds its annual specialty show and obedience trial Saturday, in the 4-H Building at the DuPage County Fairgrounds, Wheaton.

Judging starts at 9 a.m., with the puppy sweepstakes and obedience classes first to start. There are 155 dogs and they are in for a total of 249 entries.

You are invited to attend. There is plenty of parking and there will be refreshments available. If you want more information, contact the show chairman, Robert Schalund, 312-629-5572.

Barks & Bays —

The answer to the question in the last column of what breed is known as the "Lion Dog" is the Pekingese. The breed was revered in China centuries ago as a sacred symbol of the protector of the faith, the Buddha Lion.

Splits and spares

David Sperry of Janesville, Wis. bowled a game in 1975-76 in which he left five 5-7 splits. He came back strong, however, by converting all five of the splits.

Entrants welcome
